

Council Admits Limits In Beer-Wine Powers

By PAM TROBOY

After almost two months of consideration, the City Council has finally decided that it cannot further restrict the sale of beer and wine.

Council members Friday night instructed City Attorney Bill Roberts to prepare an ordinance conforming with provisions of the state Alcoholic Beverage Code.

The ordinance will be formally approved at noon on Dec. 9, the final day of the council's 60-day moratorium on sales. Voters earlier approved beer and wine sales within the city by a 5,791-4,464 margin.

Considered as a police power ordinance, the city statute will prohibit sales within 300 feet of a public school, church or public hospital. Sales are also banned in any residentially zoned area.

Nine people testified in favor of this plan at a special joint council-Planning and Zoning Commission public hearing. No one spoke in opposition.

Attorney Bob Dry, speaking in behalf of Southland Corporation, warned that if residential areas were included in the 300-foot ban list as originally proposed by the council last month, the effect would be "disastrous."

Noting that the philosophy of 7-11 is to locate as close as possible to residential areas, Dry said that numerous Plano stores are barely within the 300-foot limit and might become ineligible to sell beer and wine if another house were built nearer to the store.

"In many of these cases, other stores could locate less than 50 feet away and sell beer and wine," he pointed out. "You must weigh the possible benefit to residences against the possibility of a vacant store in the area with another store selling beer 75 or 80 feet away."

Dry added that he believed the proposed ordinance would compound all the problems that "drys" worried about in the recent election.

He said that by concentrating businesses which can sell beer and wine into fewer areas, traffic congestion is increased, the litter problem is compounded and if any "undesirables" are attracted to Plano, they will congregate in the same area.

Since Plano is predominantly a residential town, Dry stressed that it would be impossible to zone away all effects on residential areas.

Restricting sales to limited areas, however, would arbitrarily subject certain areas to massive doses of problems.

Representatives of Tom Thumb and Buddies also testified. Ian Russell with Kendrick Properties said Tom Thumb wanted to live within the ordinance but did not want to give a competitive edge to other grocery stores.

Darrell Clark, a supervisor of Buddies, merely asked the council to "get moving" so the store can begin to sell the beverages.

The co-chairman of the Plano Citizens for Common Sense, Mike Bearden, also asked the city to go forward. He said the meeting itself was "absolutely silly."

"Nothing can be accomplished," Bearden continued. "Great, people can get up and speak; but any attempt to pass an ordinance more restrictive than state law will result in a lawsuit, and you can't win."

After hearing all testimony, the commission recommended that the council pass a police powers ordinance.

Voting against the recommendation were Bob McCurley and Jim Edwards. Both advocated including a

School Board To Convene On Tuesday

Appointment of the 1977-78 Textbook Committee and consideration of a report from the district-wide Curriculum Committee will highlight action at Tuesday's 7:30 p.m. School Board meeting at the School Administration Building, 1517 Ave. H.

Prior to convening in public session, trustees will meet in executive session to discuss personnel and site matters and to consult with legal counsel.

In the public session, 15 teachers will be named to the Textbook Committee that will recommend which books should be adopted for use in the Plano schools beginning in September 1978. Other teachers and parents from each secondary school will also review the books as special advisors for the committee.

The Curriculum Committee report will focus on recommendations concerning standardized testing of students. Trustees will also receive a report on parking at John Clark Field.

In other action, trustees will consider the 1976-77 school year financial audit prepared by Cheshire and Fuller, CPA; review a change order on Wells Elementary; and adopt a resolution of appreciation to the First National Bank and Plano Savings and Loan Association for the scoreboard at Clark Field.

County Citizens View Revenue Sharing Funds

Citizens will give input to the Collin County Commissioners Court as to proposed uses for $1.1 million in revenue sharing funds.

The court will hold a public hearing to hear suggestions for use of the federal funds at 10 a.m. Monday following its regular 9 a.m. meeting.

Some $692,905 in unappropriated dollars remains in the county's revenue sharing trust fund while $417,230 is expected to be received during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1978. Collin County has traditionally used the federal funds for capital-type expenditures.

Any interested county resident will be given the opportunity to speak at the public hearing, to be held in the Commissioners Court room of the county courthouse in McKinney.

At the court's regular meeting, commissioners will consider a bid award for two dump trucks and one pickup truck for Precinct 4 and an emergency purchase of an automobile for the Sheriff's Department to replace a wrecked vehicle.

An executive session to discuss personnel will follow the regular meeting.

Buy Trees, Support Jaycees

An annual project for the civic organization, the Plano Jaycees' Christmas Tree Lot is open again this year at FM 544 and Alma Road. Douglas firs, Scotch pines and Plantation spruces are available at the lot from 10 a.m.-10 p.m.

Zoning Amendments

P&Z Sets Hearings

Public hearings have been called on two proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance.

Planning and Zoning Commissioners Monday night will consider whether to require a side yard for commercial developments under certain conditions and whether to permit carports within three feet of the property line in certain circumstances.

Changes to the carport ordinance would require a minimum distance equal to the required side yard for the main building if entered from the side yard.

A carport may also be constructed within three feet of the rear property line if there is an alley between that property line and the lot to the rear.

The side yard changes provide that no interior side yard is required for non-residential use in commercial districts except where the non-residential use abuts upon a district boundary line with a residential district in which case a minimum of 10 feet must be provided.

When a lot in commercial districts is located at the intersection of two streets, a side yard of 15 feet is required on the side adjacent to the street.

In other business, the commission will review the site plan and final plat of R.C. Clark High School. The 9-10 grade school is to be located on 25.5 acres at the northwest corner of Stadium Drive and Spring Creek Parkway, on the site of the Multi-Purpose Complex.

Also on the agenda is the final plat of Town West II, 13.6 acres divided into 50 lots. The property is located south of Spring Creek Parkway and east of Alma Drive.

The replat of a lot in Kimberlea II has also been submitted. The .7 acre lot is the site of a Gulf station.

Commissioners will also consider the final plat of Los Rios IV, 32.6 acres located on Los Rios Boulevard about 560 feet north of E. 14th Street. The SF-3 property is planned for 99 lots.

The site plan and replat of the Adams Professional Arts Center has also been filed. The .38 acres is located at the northwest corner of W. 15th Street and Linda Lane.

Wildcats Win Thriller!

Sculptor Remembers Military Heroes

Plano Library Display Combines History, Art

By CORDELIA COTTINGIM

Miniature figurines are Charles Caldwell's artform. The small-scale sculpture seemed practical at the time; when he began, his home utility room was his studio.

His studio space grew as he prospered in his art and out of it but he remained loyal to the five-inch figures because, he says, "they were selling and people didn't seem to be interested in buying large busts."

Another of Caldwell's interests is history and that preoccupation is what brought him to live in the Lake Dallas area in 1974 and to the Gladys Harrington Public Library for the recent Veterans Day exhibit of his work.

"I've always been interested in history and most of America's history is wars so I have combined history and sculpture," he says.

The result is collections of small military figures sculpted from a plastic-clay material and painted. They depict the Medal of Honor winners in the Guadalcanal Campaign—the only action where all branches of services were represented among the honor recipients; the most decorated military men in World War II such as Audie Murphy and Sgt. York; and the Marine Corp uniforms from 1775 to 1973.

These figures, medal and ribbon decorations from World Wars I and II, small dioramas, Korean War gear and helmets will be on display at the Plano library until Friday at 2 p.m. when Caldwell will return to dismantle his display, tell stories about his work and the military history it represents.

He tells a good tale—and a true one, he says—about the fellow in World War II who caught a bullet in his helmet. The bullet injured both his ears when it whizzed alongside his head and around the curved inside of the helmet before escaping out the other side. In World War I that wasn't a problem because the helmets had broader brims and the bullet would have been deflected.

Caldwell's military men earned him some recognition in the early 1970s and an invitation to live in the Dallas area where he could have a steady market for his work at The Militaria, a Dallas Quadrangle specialty store.

But Caldwell has expanded his subject matter more recently to complete two series of figurines for Civil War figures.

And closer to home, the Heard Natural Science Museum and Wildlife Sanctuary near McKinney has asked Caldwell to sculpt 100 American historical figures for an exhibit to open next spring.

Caldwell already has completed a sculpted model of the skull of a red wolf for the museum and plans

“We the People of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defence (sic), promote the general Welfare, and secure the blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.”

In case you have forgotten it, the above preamble to the Constitution is the foundation of our democracy. It used to be required that all students memorize the preamble in about the fourth grade. It was fundamental to our studies of history and government. It was a statement of the purpose of all the laws that were set forth by our Congress.

The key words are the very first words, “We the People”, because it was never intended that the government should represent anything other than the will of the people.

Today, most often we hear our federal establishment referred to as “the government”. It is a hodgepodge of overlapping bureaus and departments. Often, it is impossible to comply completely with the rules of one bureau without finding yourself in violation of the rules of another.

A bureaucrat in Dallas, along with a developer who lives who-knows-where can come into our city and build us a rent-subsidized apartment project without anyone having requested it, or even expressing a desire for it. They insist on proceeding even when local opposition is voiced from citizens and from the local government. We are told in effect, “you have no choice or say in the matter”.

The situation has gotten completely out of hand. It IS the government instead of OUR government.

“We the People”...It has a nice sound ..Let’s try to get back to it.

One last comment on the taxpayer-funded women’s lobby gathering in Houston...Time Magazine quoted Ladybird Johnson as follows: “If I were an elected official, I would take due note of their earnestness, their enthusiasm—and their numbers.” She’s a pretty shrewd Ladybird, and she commented right to the point.

The Lighter Side

Currency Anemia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The $2 bill, reissued in April 1976, has bombed badly.

If it had been a Broadway production, it would have closed on Saturday night.

On paper, the bill looked good.

Like everything else these days, the cost of printing money is on the rise. Simple arithmetic will tell you it's cheaper to make one $2 bill than it is to make two $1 bills.

So the Bureau of Engraving and Printing ran off about 527 million with the expectation of saving maybe $5 million a year.

At last count, however, only about 220 million were in circulation. Meanwhile, the demand for $1 bills has continued to grow apace.

Despite overwhelming evidence that it has a real turkey on its hands, the Treasury Department keeps trying to improve the bill's image and thus salvage its investment.

The latest effort along that line is an agreement with food store chains to distribute $2 bills to their customers in certain areas.

If public resistance remains high, the government presumably will try something else.

I'm certainly no currency expert but from long experience I do know something about public relations gimmicks. Here are a few that might boost the bill's popularity:

Contests — Fill goldfish bowls with $2 bills, place them in store windows all over the country and offer prizes to the people who come closest to guessing how much money the bowls contain.

It might be easy to estimate that a bowl contains, say, 836 bills. But that's just the half of it. To hit the correct monetary sum, a contestant must remember to double that figure. This is certain to make the public more $2-bill conscious.

Public Service Announcements — All sorts of celebrities donate their services to plug worthwhile causes on radio and television. I'm sure the Treasury Department could line up a wonderful group to endorse the $2 bill.

"Hi, this is movie star Burt Reynolds asking you to join the crusade against currency glut.

"Did you ever stop to think that carrying around a fat, overstuffed wallet imposes an extra burden on your heart and also may cause you to walk lopsided?

"The U.S. Treasury Department wishes me to remind you that you can reduce wallet bulge up to 50 per cent by switching to trim new $2 bills."

Superstition — Arrangements are made for Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees to carry a $2 bill in his pocket during the World Series.

If he breaks the home run record, lord gets around that a $2 bill brings good luck.

If he strikes out, he is traded to the State Department to plug the Panama Canal treaty.

Dear Sir:

I find our erstwhile City Fathers' position on the issue of wet-dry ludicrous to the point of being pathetic.

Commencing with the apparent attempt at travesty in allocating two polling places for an election that promised to attract a majority voter turn-out. Nevermind, that to accommodate the electorate in earlier city and school bond issue elections, at least five or six polling points where established—for the convenience of a much smaller turn-out.

Is it conceivable that our elected officials sought to sway this election by the simple expedient of making it difficult and inconvenient to cast a ballot?

One's suspicions that our City Fathers are continuing to be influenced by the Baptist-Bootlegger Coalition is evidenced by their untimely, time-consuming, and assine debates over studies, proposals, and unenforceable ordinances.

We held an election. The majority voted for legal sale of beer and wine off-site. So wherein lies the delay?

Let's make it clear to our City Council that we elected them to represent us—not to sit as a tribunal godfather image of our collective morality and taste.

Editor's Note: The election was called and conducted by the county in accordance with state law.

Dear Sir:

We were very disappointed in your picture coverage of the football game Friday night on pages 8 and 9 of Sunday's paper. Although you had some great shots of the football team, the Planoettes, the cheerleaders, the coaches, the trainers, signs and banners, and even players from the other team, you conspicuously omitted some very important people.

We refer to the young people who give us such excellent half-time entertainment week after week and provide so much of the color and excitement at every game—the Plano Wildcat Band.

Most people do not realize how very hard these kids work and the long hours they spend every day preparing for each weekly half-time show. Just think how much our band adds to the fun and excitement of our games.

Plano is fortunate and should be proud to have such a fine band and director, Mr. Tom Bennett. Let's all give our terrific Wildcat Band the credit and support that it so richly deserves!

Respectfully,

Dear Mr. Shriver:

I first opened the Sunday Star-Courier hoping for an article reflecting the experiences of Plano women who attended the National Women's Conference in Houston. Not finding this reported, I read the AUSTIN—Legislative tax policy planners received a super-rosy picture of the state's economic outlook and governmental income potential.

One storm cloud on the horizon, however, is the uncertain energy picture and, particularly, the specter of an "anti-Texas" federal energy passage emerging from congress.

"Everything looks good," Houston economist George Crosby told the House Ways and Means Committee at a special hearing here. "The energy situation is the main uncertainty."

Crosby noted Texas is the fastest-growing state among the top 20, unemployment is below the U.S. average and declining, and an increase in industrial plant construction is offsetting a decline in residential building.

Bill Allaway, a revenue estimator for State Comptroller Bob Bullock, said income from the sales tax bill will continue to increase at the rate of 11.8 per cent and 11.3 per cent during the next two years—reaching a total of $4 billion for the 1978-79 fiscal period.

In spite of a decline in production, natural gas taxes also are continuing to increase. Severance taxes on gas are expected to reach $550 million in 1978 and $670 million in 1979, according to Allaway's forecast.

The Ways and Means Committee also was reminded that Texas is one of three states which taxes gasoline at under seven cents a gallon (five cents). At four per cent, the Texas sales tax is about mid-range for the nation. The cigarette tax is among the highest (18.5 cents a pack). The gas severance tax also is among the highest, and the oil severance tax rate about mid-way for the oil-producing states.

paragraph in your column referring to the Conference. The tone of your brief comment has to be disappointing, not to say insulting, to many women in Plano.

The women who went to Houston are perhaps not typical, because of their outstanding individual qualifications (are you aware of them?), but they represent hundreds who regularly and routinely accept their share of responsibility for our community. Most of it done voluntarily, through schools, churches, civic organizations and service groups, their work shows concern far beyond paying taxes to support governmental agencies.

The interest of these women in the subjects dealt with in Houston, along with their community work and efforts at keeping informed and active in the legislative processes which affect us all, is not time or concern taken away from their families, but given for the sake of their families. This involvement educates our children to be responsible citizens, by example showing them that the kind of town and the kind of world they live in depend on their willingness to be participants instead of drop-outs, and that the process must involve all of us equally.

It is your loss and that of your paper when you discount such women with the kind of slur obviously intended by your distinction between "ladies" and WOMEN. I would be interested in your definition of the two terms. I accept either, and representing, probably, a generation previous to yours, remember "lady" as being the counterpart of "gentleman", which I was taught to mean one who never intentionally causes pain to another. Is it possible that by the nature of your characterization you excluded yourself from the category?

Sincerely,

Euvonne Thompson

What Other Newspapers Are Saying

By United Press International
Worcester (Mass.) telegram:

Egyptian President Anwar el-Sadat has often demonstrated a penchant for the unexpected. But his decision to go to Israel and face the Knesset takes the cake.

In 1973, he abruptly broke relations with the Russians when it became apparent that the price for Moscow's friendship was too high. He embraced former Secretary of State Kissinger, calling him "my friend Henry." He snubbed the Palestine Liberation Organization and signed a partial truce with Israel. And when he saw that preparations for a Geneva conference were being sidetracked by procedural differences, he became the first Arab leader to visit Israel since the founding of the Jewish state in 1948.

His is a courageous act. No matter what happens, the journey amounts to a form of recognition of Israel, a gesture no Arab government has been willing to make. Whether it leads to actual peace talks between the two nations, or remains mostly symbolic, the trip is immensely significant.

The Wheeling (W.Va.) Intel-ligence

For the first time in a great long while, there is reason for cautious optimism that peace may come to the Middle East. A great deal remains to be settled, and a lot of people are unhappy with the development, but the non-belligerency agreement between Egypt and Israel does indicate that there are those on both sides who apparently do desire peace and are willing to pursue it in a reasonable manner. ...

We welcome the non-belligerency pact between Israel and Egypt and hope those nations adhere to its provisions. However, lasting peace won't come to the Middle East with a simple handshake and promises of no more war. A lot of very major issues must be resolved. But the Sadat visit and the nonbelligerency agreement give much greater hope that peace is possible.

The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

Generations of anti-war crusaders have argued that international disagreements would evaporate if soldiers, and the leaders who order them into battle, met their counterparts face to face, or, as it might be phrase today, one-to-one. Regrettably, that romantic expression is as over-simple as it is inspiring.

But there are occasions when such personal contact can elevate symbolism to substance. A truly poignant and exciting example was Egyptian President Sadat's weekend visit to Jerusalem.

... There is danger that the momentum created by the Sadat visit will turn upon itself and damage the cause of peace. Despite his protestations to the contrary, for example, some of Mr. Sadat's Arab brothers may conclude that he has reached a psychological if not substantive separate peace with Israelis. ... the dramatic meeting of Messrs. Sadat and Begin will inspire all of the concerned parties in the Middle East to do their best to make the proposed Geneva conference as openended and creative a forum as possible.

Regrettably, those who will be negotiating at such a conference will not have much experience with peace. For that reason, Mr. Sadat's weekend in Jerusalem will be a moving and useful object lesson.

Portland (Maine) Press Herald:

The Egyptian spokesman who, in commenting on President Anwar Sadat's historic visit to Israel, said "hostilities of the past 30 years have been ended in 30 hours" was overstating the case.

But his enthusiasm was understandable. It seemed to e crowds of Egyptians as they welcomed their leader home. In one sense, the spokesman was correct when he said that Sadat's visit was "100 percent" successful in preparing for further Geneva peace talks.

That is a long way from saying, however, that hostilities have been ended.

It was a considerable achievement. When all the pomp and circumstance has been completed, the leaders of two opposing forces had been able to meet and talk privately. There was no indication that either had abdicated the positions they had held for so long. There are certain requirements fundamental to each side and there appears to have been no change in those requirements.

The visit was a sensitive thing physically, but no incident marred the occasion.

The more extreme element of the Arab community is distressed, but the moderates see possibilities and hope in the meeting and many clearly applaud the Sadat visit.

Those 30 hours did not end the hostilities of 30 years. But they many have been a big step toward that desired peace.

Bennington (Vt.) Banner:

If events had not moved so quickly in the Mideast last weekend, American newspaper readers would no doubt have been looking at Bella Abzug and Betty Ford as they sipped Sunday morning coffee, instead of seeing Anwar Sadat.

The National Women's Conference in Houston was bumped off the front pages by the historic news from Israel, but the lack of media scrutiny apparently did not diminish the fervor and rancor of the convocation of America's women.

The conference approved a 25-plank program for women's equality, while wisely deciding against the ideas of a cabinet-level department of women. Among the programs winning support from the women were the Equal Rights Amendment, federally-funded abortions for low-income women and lesbian rights.

The Houston conference is the first major gathering of women to discuss their rights since 1848, when 260 women and 40 men convened in Seneca Falls, N.Y., to support for the equality of the sexes and women's suffrage. Only one delegate lived to see women vote.

We would guess that even if the Houston convention had not been held, may of the programs it supported will soon be law. The changes are in the wind, they have wide support and women today will not have to wait a lifetime to see the difference.

Dallas Times Herald

It may be only a new delaying tactic, but the announcement by Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith that he is willing to accept the principle of one-man, one-vote provides a basis for hoping that a peaceful transition to black power is possible.

...The Smith announcement undercuts the latest British-American plan for Rhodesia that calls upon him to "surrender" power to Britain to make way for black majority rule...

The growing differences among the more radical nationalist factions outside Rhodesia and the five African states supporting them in their guerrilla war apparently encouraged Smith to endorse majority rule as a way to get domestic nationalist leaders to the conference table.

The Smith gesture was not made without reservations. He said he will seek guarantees for an impartial judiciary and special representation for minority groups.

What role the British and American governments may play in the Rhodesian negotiations is unclear. The British-American plan ... calls for free elections within six months of the time Smith surrenders to the British ... and prior to the advent of the country's independence under black-majority rule before the end of 1978.

...Hundreds of white Rhodesians have already abandoned hope for a peaceful transition to black rule and have emigrated to safer lands. The guerrilla war has taken a heavy toll among both white and black Rhodesians, but until now ... Smith has held fast to a system of qualified suffrage in which the white minority could exercise its control.

If Smith is serious about entering into negotiations with relatively moderate black leaders in Rhodesia, the embattled country may be able to find a way out of its dilemma without undergoing a bloody revolution. Americans surely will join Smith in hoping he can "get this one off the ground."

Bob Henderson's

State of Enviroment

Dear Bob: The drought in parts of the country this year has caused many people to jump on the water conservation bandwagon. I can see conserving water for the sake of saving energy, but it is hard for me to imagine that we would ever run short of water. Isn't the world's supply of water far greater than the amount we use?

Dear Reader: Our planet contains a tremendous amount of water, but 99.997 percent of the earth's water is either too salty, too frozen, too remote, or too polluted to be used.

The amount of usable water is about 20,000 trillion gallons, or about 5 million gallons per person.

This seems like a great deal of water. But when we consider that water on the earth is unequally distributed, that demand for water is rapidly increasing, and that water pollution is effectively decreasing our supply of usable water, we begin to realize that the world does have a water shortage.

In the United States, the average person uses about 2,000 gallons of water each day. We use water for bathing (30-40 gallons), washing clothes (20-30 gallons), cooking (8 gallons), washing dishes, (10 gallons), flushing the toilet (25 gallons), and watering the lawn (10 gallons per 1,000 square feet).

Water wasted by leaky faucets and toilets in Plano alone amounts to about one million gallons each day.

Indirect use of water accounts for most of our water consumption. For instance, it takes about 40 gallons of water to produce one egg, 150 gallons for a loaf of bread, and 2,500 gallons for one pound of beef.

Presently we are consuming a little over half of the usable water in the United States. Expert projections indicate that in less than 30 years our demand for water will exceed our supply.

It is predicted that the entire state of Texas, with the possible exception of the northeast corner, will have a water deficit by the year 2000.

If you have any doubts about our dwindling water supply, just talk to a West Texas farmer. Conserving water now is extremely important to our future.

Dear Bob: I understand that most of our oxygen supply comes from the ocean. If we continue to pollute the ocean, won't we kill the oxygen-producing plants and eventually run out of oxygen?

Dear Reader: It is true that our pollution could cause the death of many of the phytoplankton plants which produce 70 percent of the world's supply of oxygen. It is not true, however, that this will reduce our oxygen supply.

If we kill these ocean plants, oxygen production would decrease, but so would oxygen consumption.

No net change in the oxygen content of the atmosphere would occur since just as much oxygen is consumed during a plant's decay as was released during the plant's growth.

Running out of oxygen is one ecological horror story we do not have to worry about.

Headaches

Down thru the ages the human race has been affected by headaches. The medical profession has given it a fancy name and divided the most common types into five different classes. These being migraine, cluster, hypertensive, occipital, and allergic. Dividing headaches into different categories is nothing new. I can remember when I was a kid this form of pain was described as a splitting headache, busting headache, sick headache, and more recently, in Sherman there is a new type of headache called the Plano headache. Among some other people up there Plano has been accused of creating pain in a different part of the anatomy, but we are not talking about that end this week.

Really, a common headache is a symptom and not a disease. And with the exception of the hypertensive type they are not usually indicative of anything life threatening. The problem facing the doctor is that there are a few cases where a headache can be a sign of something plumb bad, so the doctor has to rule out all these possibilities before he can prescribe something for your nagging little pain.

The hypertensive type is usually worse in the morning than later in the day. This is probably due to the fact that the increased blood pressure dilates the arteries in the brain and creates additional pressure on brain tissues and nerve endings. When you are lying down it is easier for the blood to get up there, so more pressure.

One of the most dangerous aspects of hypertensive headaches is that some people use them as an indicator as to whether they need to take their blood pressure medicine. I don't know how many times I've heard "Oh, I can tell when my pressure is up cause I will get a headache and I start taking my medicine and it will go away!" The fallacy to this is that in most cases the headache doesn't occur until the pressure has gone sky high. Therefore one should not assume that the blood pressure is normal just because their headbone don't hurt.

Wrestlers Win Two Matches

Plano Beats Richardson, Dallas White

Coach Taylor Webb's wrestling team at Plano Senior High School boosted their District 13-AAAA record to 2-0 and their season mark to 3-0 with match wins over Richardson High and Dallas White last week.

Thursday night, Plano downed Richardson High in their second district match, 34-27. Wednesday night, Plano hosted Dallas White in a non-district dual match and the Wildcats won big, 48-9.

Coach Webb was pleased at the Wildcat victories, especially over Richardson.

"Richardson High has a good team and this was an important district win for us," Coach Webb said. "They are a power team, especially at 119, 145 and 185 lb. along with being well balanced throughout their weights." Plano dominated the lower and middle weight classes and took a 25-6 edge at the midway mark. Wayne Weatherman at 98 lb., Richard Burgess at 105 lb. and Joe Belmonte at 112 lb. provided Plano with a 17-0 lead in the early going.

Decision wins by John Murray at 126 lb., Mark Develde at 132 lb. and Stuart

Richardson might have come close to tying up the score but a default to Plano in the 167 lb. class proved to be the winning points.

Against Dallas White, Plano won five of their 10 match victories by pins. Pinning their opponents were Richard Burgess at 105 lb., Joe Belmonte at 112 lb.,

Plano also forged ahead on a superior decision by Wes Stover in the 145 lb. class and a major decision by John Murray in the 126 lb. class.

Plano's next matches will be Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Plano Senior High's Activities Building against Bishop Lynch.

Cowboys Eye Division Title

Host Eagles Today

By MIKE RABUN
UPI Sports Writer

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys, already assured of a trip to the NFL playoffs, go after a division title, a post-season home field advantage and a little momentum Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Eagles, whose last seven losses have been by an average of five points, came close to downing Dallas when they met earlier this year, but a blocked punt returned for a touchdown in the fourth quarter lifted the Cowboys to a 16-10 victory.

Dallas has won six in a row over Philadelphia and 18 of their last 20 meetings.

"Philadelphia has been in every game they have played and they will give us all we want," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "It's surprising to me their record is not better than it is."

Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermiel feels it is the little things that have kept the Eagles from posting a winning record this year.

"When the little things go wrong and beat you it shows you are just not good enough yet," said Vermiel. "Other people make some mistakes and go ahead and win. We can't come back yet."

"We have to play a perfect game to beat Dallas. But we can do it. We had them beat when we played in Philadelphia, but a mental mistake (on the blocked punt) killed us."

Philadelphia has won only three games in 11 tries and is already trying to build for next season. Dallas, meanwhile, has clinched a playoff spot for the 11th time in the past dozen years with its 9-2 record.

A victory over the Eagles and the Cowboys will not only clinch the NFC East title (they would own at least a two-game lead over second place St. Louis with two games to go and have the tiebreak advantage over the Cardinals at well) but would be assured of hosting a first-round playoff game.

That game would come on Dec. 26 — probably against the winner of the Central Division, either Minnesota or Chicago.

"We took one step last Sunday (during a 14-7 win over Washington) in maturing as a team," said Landry. "Enough of those performances back-to-back and we might be able to put three tough games together."

Those three tough games, of course, are what it takes to win a Super Bowl.

"Our goal is to get to the Super Bowl and you can't stand still and get that far," said Landry, whose team shook off a two-game losing streak with the win over the Redskins.

"We fell off a bit defensively during those two losses and the defense has been the strength of our team. We've got to improve in a lot of areas and this is the time we need to start improving."

Ladies League Bowling Results

Kings Table continues to hold a slight lead over the Pin Ups in the Wednesday Night Ladies Get Acquainted League at the Plano Bowling Lanes.

The Pin Ups trailed with a 31-17 record compared to that of Kings Table of 32½-15½. Kings Table, however, trails in total pins 17316 to 18700.

Nancy Luczycki was the individual high game leader with a 212. She also took the individual high series with a score of 514.

Plano Stuns Highland Park Scots

By ED VOSS

Upset minded Plano pulled off the comeback of the year in Class AAAA Saturday night in a 29-28 victory over highly touted Highland Park before 35,675 fans at Texas Stadium.

Plano's never-die Wildcats trailed Highland Park 28-0 in the third period before rallying for 29 unanswered points and a quarter final victory in the state schoolboy football playoffs.

Capper to the victory was an astonishing 61-yard flanker pass from Stevie Haynes to reserve runningback Perry Haynes with only 33 seconds remaining. However, Plano still trailed 28-27 but took the victory on a 2-point conversion run by quarterback Steve Ulmer. It was the largest high school crowd ever at Texas Stadium that witnessed Plano's sensational comeback. Highland Park held a 21-0 lead at halftime behind the passing of sophomore quarterback Lance McIlhenny and the running of his older brother, Lott McIlhenny.

Highland Park initiated scoring in the first period on their second possession of the game on an 18-yard pass from Lance McIlhenny to Russ Walker. Wit Smith tackled on the conversion for a 7-0 lead.

The Scots enlarged their lead 14-0 midway through the second period on a grueling 17-play drive of 98 yards. Lott McIlhenny capped the march on a two yard burst. Smith kicked the PAT.

As Plano attempted to pass for a score just before halftime, Highland Park intercepted 46 yards from paydirt. Then Norwood returned the interception 40 yards and set up a 5-yard touchdown pass from Lance McIlhenny to Joe Staley. Smith split the upright for a 21-0 halftime edge for the Scots.

In the second half, the Scots took the kickoff and drove 69 yards for their fourth touchdown on a 2-yard bull by Lott McIlhenny. Smith again provided the conversion and Highland Park led 28-0.

Then Plano began their incredible rally on their ensuing possession. The Wildcats retaliated on an 80-yard scoring drive in 7 plays. The capper was a 23-yard quarterback draw by Steve Ulmer. Stevie Haynes kicked the extra point but Plano trailed 28-7.

Following a short punt by Highland Park Plano got their second score on a four play series of 45 yards on a 13-yard pass from Ulmer to runningback John Gaddis. Haynes' kick narrowed the Scots' lead to 28-14.

Plano's defense got into the scoring action early in the fourth quarter when cornerback Carl Smith intercepted a Lance McIlhenny pitchout and raced 66 yards to paydirt. Haynes once again provided the PAT but Plano trailed 28-21.

Then with only 1:14 left in the game Plano touched the football for their final series and their magic continued. Plano went 80 yards in only four plays with the touchdown coming on a trick play-61-yard flanker pass from Stevie Haynes to Perry Haynes.

Plano elected to go for two points on the conversion because a tie game would have sent Highland Park to the semifinals in Odessa Permian. Ulmer provided the crucial two points on an option keeper for a Plano 29-28 win. Plano will play Odessa Permian next week at a time and a place to be announced. See Monday's Star Courier for further details and game photographs.

At Denver Morton Leads Surge

By JAMES LAWRENCE
DENVER (UPI) — Craig Morton, who is piloting the Denver Broncos to the club's best season in its 18 year history, is a changed man.

The veteran quarterback believes his achievements this year are mainly due to his religious conversion and the influence of coach Red Miller. The knocked-knee 34-year-old quarterback also credits his recent marriage to a longtime Dallas sweetheart as being a factor in remodeling his career and life.

"But I have to give the glory I've received to the Lord," said Morton, who was acquired by the Broncos in a trade with the New York Giants last summer.

"I've found the Lord in the last five months and he has provided me with an inner peace I've never known before."

Morton, 34, was named the Broncos' No. 1 quarterback at the start of the 1977 NFL season after beating out veteran Steve Spurrier, who was eventually waived, and backups Craig Penrose and Norris Weese.

He has since guided the Broncos to a 10-1 record, best in the league, with a 79.1 NFL rating and successful bootleg runs and roll-outs which have made even his most severe critics take a second look.

The veteran signal caller, who has completed 109 passes in 214 attempts for 1,609 yards, also has thrown and rushed for 11 touchdowns. He is rated third among quarterbacks in the NFL behind Miami's Bob Greise and Baltimore's Bert Jones.

"I was blessed by being able to come to Denver," said Morton following a workout session this week. "Red (Miller) has instilled a winning attitude in the players here and I've adopted his philosophy."

"Red is a positive person who knows what he's talking about and the people here believe in him," he said. "His approach is a easy going one but there is discipline. He tries to keep people loose and at the same time he demands concentration."

One of the most noticeable differences in Morton's style this year has been his effectiveness as a bootlegger and on roll-outs, particularly, in light of his almost non-existent speed which has been compared to that of a tortoise.

Asked if he'd ever been timed in the 40-yard dash, Morton said jokingly, "my speed is too slow to clock."

Morton has been in professional football the past 13 years, 10 years with the Dallas Cowboys and 2½ years with the Giants where New York fans booed him incessantly for what they considered mediocre performances.

Now riding the crest of a career, which he claims began only several months ago with his "finding the Lord," Morton refuses to lash out at his critics, who'd ranked him as a 'has-been.'

"I don't hold any animosity toward those people," he said. "They don't like losing and I really can't blame them. New Yorkers are a little coarser than people in other parts of the country and that whole situation just wasn't me."

"New York wasn't my type of climate or environment," Morton said. "I never believed people who said I was washed up."

Morton said his marriage this fall to his wife, Susan, who introduced him to Christ, has given his life new meaning and substance. Gone are the days of wine and loose women, parties until the dawn hours, and months of leisure as a ski bum at his favorite mountain retreat in Aspen, Colo.

"I think on the surface you could say I had a good life, but there was no depth to it," Morton said.

Ex-Wildcats Make All-LSC

Kelvin Smith, Kirby Jones Named

Two former Plano High School footballers were named to the 1977 Coaches all-Lone Star Conference football team. They are, Kirby Jones a 1974 graduate and Kelvin Smith a 1975 graduate.

Jones was named starting tight end. The 6'2", 215 lb. junior, was an all-district selection his senior year at Plano. Earlier in the year Jones was named Wildcat of the week at Abilene Christian University in their win over Cameron University. He caught six passes for 185 yards, including one 36-yarder for a tie breaking touchdown.

Smith had been referred to by Angelo State University Coach Jim Hess as having the potential to be the best linebacker in the schools history. Smith is beginning to live up to his acclaim as he was named to the first team defense from his linebacking position. He is in his second year as a starter for the Rams.

The 6'0", 225 lb. junior is a 1975 graduate of Plano where he was named all-district for two years, all-

Metro in his senior year on offense and defense, as well as being the District 13AAAA's player of the year in 1974.

Smith was named LSC defensive player of the week in the middle of September in their 31-6 rout of Central Oklahoma.

Allen 7th Wins In Tourney

In their initial game in the Allen seventh grade tournament the Allen girls basketball team defeated Princeton 33-12, Thursday night.

"I was exceptionally pleased with everyone's effort," said Coach P.D. Thomas. "we shot 29.7 percent from the field which is very good for seventh grade girls."

Brenda Adams was the leading scorer for the Eagles with 13 points. She was followed by Tina Sherman with six points and Chris LaCroix with four points.

"Everyone got to play and they all did well," said Coach Thomas.

Others in on the scoring were Kim Darnell with two points, Erin Hillary, Angie Todd and Chris Fitzgerald, all with two points and Tamara Sherman and Susan Senter both with one point.

Ammie's Cupboard Not Bare

New Heritage House Gift Shop Open for Business

Ammie's Cupboard is now open for business upstairs at the Heritage House, 1900 W. 15th St.

The shop will be a continuing fund-raising project of the Plano Heritage Assn. and will offer handmade items from local artists and craftspersons year-round. Business hours coincide with regular Heritage House visiting hours.

The current stock at this unique gift shop is comprised largely of holiday items—Victorian tabletop Christmas stockings made of needlepoint, velvet, lace and pearls, as well as the conventional quilted stockings, jeweled tree ornaments and gift items.

Also available are bread baskets, throw pillows, needlework, candles, infant and children's wear, sweaters and caps, baby gifts, framed paintings and silk-screened notes.

Two unusual gift items on sale now are fig preserves made from figs grown on the trees at Heritage Center and pictures made from Texas wildflowers.

The December schedule calls for the shop to be open during the Christmas tours set for Dec. 10, 11, 13 and 14, as well as during the Plano Service League luncheons Dec. 5-9.

According to project co-chairpersons Rosemary Gilchrist and Agnes Knight, the cupboard is expected to build a reputation as an outlet for fine quality handmade items from local artisans.

Our Children

By DR. WILLARD ABRAHAM

Q. Our 4-year-old uses four-letter words, and I won't stand for it. But my wife thinks it's cute and just laughs at him. "It'll all pass," she says. Besides, she insists he doesn't really know what he is saying.

I'd like to use the wash-mouth-out-with-soap routine. Is my tough or her laughing approach the advisable procedure?

A. Probably neither one. She is partly right in feeling that it will "pass," but perhaps more quickly if his words are ignored.

Her reactions merely encourage him to say them more because he gets such a pleasant response.

Q. I've learned so much on a trial-and-error basis about being a good parent, but wish there could have been a shortcut. One of the things I learned is that sincere praise and expecting a child to perform at a high level really pay off.

Until the last few years I was a fault-finding nag with my children. I told them what to do, criticized their work when it wasn't up to my expectations (which was most of the time), and never gave them the satisfaction of feeling they had done a good job.

One day my daughter said to me in a nice way that she wished I were more like her friend's mother. When I asked what she meant, she explained that my attitude was all wrong and she gave me specific examples.

I listened, learned, and changed. It's made our family life much more pleasant and smooth. I wish I'd known all this earlier!

A. It is a rare parent who acknowledges how much a child can teach. And it is an unusual one who changes as you did.

In recent years I've begun to refer to parent education as a "wasteland." After all, how much preparation did most of us receive to help us get ready for parenthood, one of the most demanding "occupations" a person can have?

Q. Our teen-age son's school counselor has told him that there is only one vocation in which each person can be happy and successful. She feels that medicine is the field for him.

Although he is a good student, he doesn't like the sciences, does only adequately in mathematics, and really doesn't want to be a doctor.

Her comments worry him. Because he will soon finish high school, he feels that her recommendation should be followed even though it doesn't seem right to him.

I'm worried too, and would appreciate your advice.

A. Two bits of information may be helpful to you:

1. "The Dictionary of Occupational Titles," a book produced by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, lists thousands of occupations, and

2. There is a tendency at present for adults in the labor force to switch jobs several times, and be happy in more than one of them.

If there really were only one vocation appropriate for each person, wouldn't it be unfortunate for someone who lived in a country or time where or when the job didn't even exist?

Impressions

by Judy Monzingo

I love Christmas shopping. I love it so much I always start in September, sometimes even earlier, and then by the time most other people start theirs, I'm through with mine and don't get in on the fun of the crowds and the pushing and shoving.

One year, though, for some reason I have since forgotten, I saved all my shopping until the middle of December.

I didn't even make out a Christmas gift list, just struck out with my checkbook and credit cards and no idea of what I was going to buy.

First of all, I got into a hassle in the parking lot trying to find a place for my car. If you want to really see some genuine Christmas spirit, go to a mall on a Saturday afternoon in the middle of December and try to find a parking place. After driving around the lot for about a half-hour, I finally spotted someone walking back to their car. I followed them in my car, waited patiently as they loaded all their kids and packages into their car and prepared to vacate their parking space. Then, just as they pulled out, another car whizzed into the space from the opposite direction. Needless to say, I was not highly pleased.

I calmly left my car and asked them please to move, as I had been waiting for the space for quite some time. The people just laughed and said that was my tough luck.

Turning the other cheek, I bid them Merry Christmas and sought out another family walking to their car.

This time I was careful to whiz into the space just as soon as the first car moved.

A woman who had just driven into the lot had come from the other direction, and it appeared she had had her eye on my parking space, too. She motioned for me to come over to her car, and as I approached the window, she told me she was handicapped and that she couldn't walk, so would I please consider giving her my parking space? She said her daughter had already gotten out of the car and was coming to get her with a wheelchair when she parked.

It was Christmas, and I'm basically a soft touch anyway, so I agreed and gave up my parking spot. She smiled and thanked me very sweetly, and after about another half-hour, I was able to get another space.

I entered the store to find a bunch—literally—of people trying to get to the various shopping departments, with the store so crowded it appeared no one was really getting anywhere.

Because I'm afraid of escalators and the elevator was too crowded, I just decided to start shopping in the department in which I found myself on entering the store, so my father and brother-in-law both got tools for Christmas. I know as much about tools as I know about biomedical engineering, so I don't know whether what I bought did the recipients any good or not. I was trying to find woodworking tools, as both men enjoy building furniture items, but I don't think that's what I ended up with. Papa smiled sweetly when he opened the box and said, "Thank you, Judy, now I can fix the commode whenever it breaks down."

As I couldn't very well get tools for everybody, I decided to brave the elevator crowds and go up to the lingerie department. I made it after being jostled, cursed at and shoved out the door twice, and proceeded to the nightwear counter to purchase a peignoir set for my mother.

Just as I found what I wanted in the size and color I wanted, a hand came out of the crowd and snatched it out of my arms. Enraged, I sought the body attached to the hand, and, lo and behold, it was the "handicapped" lady from the parking lot, running full force across the floor with peignoir set in hand and no daughter or wheelchair in sight.

That just about did in my Christmas spirit, try as I might to be charitable and of good cheer.

Scowling and mumbling, I finished buying for my mother and sister and decided to just get gift certificates for my grandmothers.

The worst was yet to come, though, as I tried to leave the store.

The elevator decided to take a rest and got stuck between floors. I wasn't on it at the time, but when I got to the doors and heard what had happened, I decided that even the dreaded escalators would be better than getting stuck with 15 tired shoppers between floors in an elevator.

With packages in hand, I stood at the top of the moving stairs, looking, waiting, bracing myself for that moment when I would step out and lose my balance, as I always do. Before I could prepare for my descent, however, the crowd swept me along, and all my packages fell from my arms as I struggled to regain my balance. I recovered everything except my grandmothers' gift certificates, which were eaten by the escalator at the bottom where the stairs disappear into the floor.

At last I got out of the store with my sanity still partially intact, and made my way across the jungle of cars to where I thought I had left my vehicle. Wrong. I was on the wrong side of the lot altogether.

When I finally did find my car, I learned that my diligent searching for a legitimate parking space had, alas, been in vain—some turkey had just pulled right in behind me and parked, and others had followed suit, so I was blocked in for two hours.

I turned on the radio in the car and sat there shivering for two hours while Johnny Mathis sang "Sleigh bells ring, are you listening?"

Sure, I'm listening, Johnny. I just can't hear them over the sounds of car horns and angry shoppers and kids crying and some clown in a Santa Claus suit saying "Ho, Ho, Ho, Merry Christ—". Watch it, you turkey, you just splashed mud on my $39.95 deluxe Santa suit!"

Miss Rowan, Mercer Marry

MRS. MICHAEL E. MERCER
Nee Kimberly Sue Rowan

Kimberly Sue Rowan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Rowan of Richardson, and Michael E. Mercer of Plano were married in Bassett Chapel of Cliff Temple Baptist Church in Dallas at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The Rev. Dr. Douglas Watterson heard the couple's vows amid an altar setting of ivy and other greenery and burning ivory tapers.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. David E. Mercer of Plano.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of candlelight silk organza with an Empire waistline, scooped neckline and brief sleeves. French Alencon lace was heavily applied on the bodice and sleeves, and the lace was repeated on a silk organza ruffle which bordered the skirt and chapel train. A Juliet cap of matching lace encrusted with seed pearls secured the bride's fingertip illusion veil, also bordered in lace, and she carried a bouquet of orchids, ivory roses, lilies-of-the-valley and ivy.

Ruthie Nisbet of Dallas

was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of brown satin styled with square neck, pouff sleeves and ivory lace and brown velvet ribbon trim. Her bouquet was of apricot split carnations, shrimpsweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Gary Averitt of Dallas was best man. Guests were ushered to their pews by Johnny Rowan, the bride's brother from Richardson, and Jimmy Mercer, the groom's brother from Plano.

A reception followed the exchange of vows. Apricot and shrimp-hued flowers and ivory tapers decorated the reception area at the church. Apricot roses also crowned the three-tier wedding cake.

Members of the houseparty were Mary Killam, Andi Crowder, Karen Yutzy, Lisa Travelbee and Gail Rymeus. After a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will make their home in Plano.

The bride was graduated from Carter High School in Dallas in 1973 and attended Southern Methodist University and Texas Tech. She now is a student at the University of Texas-Dallas working toward the B.S. degree in speech pathology. She is employed by the Plano Police Department.

The bridegroom was graduated from Sherman High School in 1972 and attended Grayson County Junior College and Austin College before entering the U.S. Air Force in 1975. He is now attending UTD and is employed as a realtor associate.

The Visible Woman

By JANET LOWE
Copley News Service

For the past several months I've noticed clothing advertisements in The New York Times that are unusual. The difference, at first, isn't noticeable.

The styles are current, the fabrics lush. The total effect is impressive. Finally you realize the model is not exactly obese, but her proportions are more generous than we usually see on the fashion pages.

This is the emergence of a new twist in the clothing industry which began with the sales campaign for pantyhose which promoted the notion that "big is beautiful."

It isn't only on the fashion pages I've encountered the backlash against abnormal weight ideals. Airline stewardesses have objected in court to weight limits which though very stylish, are practically impossible to maintain.

While women's centers and feminist universities usually offer group sessions and classes for weight loss, they are now also beginning to offer courses that encourage women to like and accept their bodies. Beauty, they are learning, comes in many shapes.

The co-op medical advice book, "Our Bodies Our Selves" promotes a healthy weight level as one step toward total health. Yet they add, "... we feel tremendous pressure from our society to stay 'thin and beautiful' and to diet, if need be, to maintain these thin standards. Such standards usually have little to do with our physical and emotional well-being, so we often find ourselves trying to look attractive at the expense of our overall health."

Fat hasn't exactly become a feminist issue, but as women resist being judged solely on appearance, there have come some changes in thinking. Along with easier styles of dress there has come less attention to a fashion industry that touts the slogan, "You can never be too thin or too rich."

The weight loss industry, with all of its offshoots, is one of those little recognized yet massive segments of our economy.

A casual browse through the Yellow Pages of any metropolitan telephone book will show a tremendous number of health spas, reducing salons, gyms, hypnosis clinics for weight loss, equipment suppliers, clubs and special food plans, as well as physicians specializing in problems of corpulence.

A survey of women's magazines and best-seller lists will prove that nothing sells as well as a new weight loss gimmick.

Why? Perhaps it's our national neurosis over obesity. Maybe there really are that many heavy people looking for a cure. It is said that one-third of the U.S. population is overweight. Some sources claim that 75 million Americans are fat.

Like most Americans, I'm concerned about my weight and its relationship to my health. So I checked my ideal weight on an insurance company chart. This particular chart gave a 30-pound span considered normal for my height. The correct range depended on bone structure.

Only a visit to consult a physical education professor at a local college told me that my bone structure was average. My weight, then, was a little on the low side for my height. Yet that night at dinner I mentioned that I'd like to lose five pounds. My teenager looked me over and agreed that I "ought to go on a diet."

If fashion advertisements mean anything, a backlash against excessive slimmness is with us. Hopefully, this time, it will lead to a reasonable assessment... a striving for balance between good health and current perceptions.

Some Yule Spirits May Prove Lethal

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Some people frolicking at holiday parties may be role-players like that of the opera clown, Pagliacci, who laughs while his heart is breaking.

If the party-goers look happy but are depressed, and if their depression is physiological, it is potentially fatal, says Prof. George Spratto of Purdue University's School of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences.

"I can't stress strongly enough that alcohol is a depressant, that a person can die from an alcohol overdose even if there are no drugs or medication involved," Spratto said.

He added that persons who take drugs containing depressants risk potentially lethal interaction if they drink alcohol while the body is reacting to the drugs.

"Most people can't believe alcohol is a depressant because they know people who take a couple of drinks and suddenly become very active, very friendly ... or tell stories they normally wouldn't tell."

Spratto said this reaction occurs because alcohol has removed their inhibitions by depressing certain areas of the brain.

He said some kinds of medication should never be taken by people intending to drink alcohol.

For example, someone with a bad cold might fortify himself with a cough remedy to better enjoy an evening of partying. If the cough medicine contains codeine, a drug that has some depressant effects, and an antihistamine, which also has depressant effects, that one drink too many for the cold sufferer might be only his second or third, the professor said.

He said people who say, "I can just drink enough until I pass out" can drink enough in a short time to die from an alcohol overdose.

Even if they don't die from an alcohol overdose, per se, Spratto said, many who pass out, especially if they are alone at the time, may choke to death if they have spasms of vomiting while unconscious.

Contrary to popular opinion, there is nothing that will speed a drunk to sobriety, Spratto said.

"Everybody knows about the old 'remedies' such as walking the person around the block or throwing him into a shower or pouring a lot of coffee into him. That's not going to get rid of the alcohol any faster," Spratto said.

"What you have on your hands then is a wide-awake drunk, which really might not be a bad idea. You don't want that person lying down some place and possibly vomiting. There is a chance he can choke on the vomit, especially if his body is depressed. Walking and the like has a first-aid effect in that if the drunk does vomit, he is not as likely to choke."

The speed with which a person becomes drunk depends on several factors, including body weight, he said.

"... alcohol is distributed throughout the entire body. If a 250-pound man and his 150-pound companion are matching each other drink for drink, it stands to reason the 150-pounder will start feeling it first, provided both have the same general sensitivity to alcohol."

Spratto said the sensitivity factor is important. While alcohol intoxication occurs when the amount taken in is greater than the amount the body breaks down and gets rid of, different individuals might have special sensitivities to alcohol that would in effect result in an alcohol "overload" more quickly.

"You must know yourself, know your limits," he said. "I'm a firm believer that anyone who has ever had a drink knows how much he can take."

As for hangovers, he said: "People have been studying hangovers for years ... centuries, probably ... and everyone seems to have his own home remedy for coping with a hangover."

"You almost have to treat it symptomatically. If you have a headache, take aspirin; if you're nauseated, take whatever seems appropriate. Certainly, to take more alcohol is not the way to approach it. All that added alcohol is doing is depressing the system even more."

But the best hangover cure, he said, is prevention: "Simply avoid drinking more than you can handle."

Purdue Professor Says

Educational Toys Don't Teach

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Many highly touted "educational" toys really don't educate, says a Purdue University professor.

"Parents shouldn't let themselves be swayed by the television gimmicks," said Loretta M. Hatfield, head teacher and assistant director of the Child Development Laboratories in the School of Consumer and Family Sciences.

"It's time to go back to the basic blocks, cardboard boxes and homemade puppets."

Ms. Hatfield said toys educate when they challenge children to think creatively, to reason, or to advance their ability to solve problems.

Puzzles, peg boards and dominoes are good examples, she said.

A toy is frustrating, not educational, she said, if it is beyond the child's ability or developmental stage.

For example, a 16-piece puzzle would be beyond comprehension for a two- or three-year-old.

A puzzle map of the United States for a three-year-old child would only frustrate the child, whereas a four-piece puzzle would not challenge a five-year-old. Super-expensive toys may not give children anything to do, Ms. Hatfield said.

"The turn-on doll that walks, blinks, drinks, etc., at the push of a button doesn't stimulate the child's imagination or ability. I'm anti-battery-operated mechanical toys."

As examples of toys that are very educational, she named building blocks, Erector Sets and Tinker Toys because they give children a chance to use their imagination and creativity.

"Parents should also select at least one toy or game the whole family will use or play together," she said. "It is an educational setting for the child, learning social skills at home."

Homemade toys bought at bazaars are more creative and stimulating to children, she said.

"And button collections help train the child to classify and sort."

She said simple things such as tires, spools, pots and pans also stimulate children's imagination.

In selecting toys, she urges consumers to ask themselves:

— Does the toy encourage cooperative play so the children may learn to share with others?

— Does it have flexibility so children may do different things with it?

She said good choices include toys that develop small-muscle coordination such as climbing apparatus, balls or bicycles, and toys that develop motor-coordination such as peg boards or lacing (sewing) cards.

Also, boxes that educate children to recognize various shapes; beads to string; magnetic alphabet cards; dominoes to teach concepts of mathematics; unit blocks that also develop the math concept, motor coordination and social sharing.

Parents should examine toys for durability, sound construction, appropriateness to the child's age level and appeal to the child, Ms. Hatfield said.

For children with physical handicaps, she suggested wooden puzzles with knobs on each puzzle piece for easier pickup.

Sh also reminds parents not to sex-stereotype children.

"It's all right for little boys to play house and even play with dolls. Likewise, it's OK for girls to do woodworking and to play with trucks. This is how young children try on the roles and learn what it means to be a man, a woman, or a parent."

Dance With A British Flair

A British dinner and dance is planned by the TBPA (British Club) for Dec. 17. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m., followed by dancing with a British flair from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Doubletree Ranch in Lewisville will be the setting for the evening's festivities, which are to include a benefit raffle and live entertainment. Cost is $8 per person. Additional information may be obtained or reservations arranged through Jean Tristram (center), reservations chairman, 424-4213. Helping with the planning are Barbara Biendl (left) and Margaret Maun. (Staff Photo by Mike Newman)

Marionettes Performance Scheduled

Christmas with the animals is the theme of Kathy Burks Marionettes' holiday production, Waiting For Christmas, an original fairy tale with music by Beatrice Wolf. Two children find a magic music box and use it to wish for a big Christmas tree in the forest.

They also use the magic box to free their grandmother from an evil spell in time for Christmas.

Full of holiday warmth and laughter, Waiting For Christmas also features a classic villain, called Pitts, and a lovable mole, Stanley.

Children from 2 to 92 will enjoy this yuletide offering which ends with a visit from Santa. Waiting For Christmas will be performed through Dec. 24, each Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at 10:30, 1:00, and 4:00, with 7:00 performances on Thurs. and Fri. evenings.

Additional showings may be arranged for reservation groups.

Kathy Burks Marionettes perform at the Haymarket Theatre in the Olla Podrida arts and crafts market on Coit Road between Forest Lane and LBJ. For further information call 233-1958.

Parker Women To Meet

The Parker Women's Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Paul Smith in Ranchview for the annual club Christmas gala.

The event is set for Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

Hostesses will be, in addition to Mrs. Smith, Sara Park, Linda Yoo, Pat Farnung and Virgie Partin. Additional information is available by phoning 442-2483.

FHA Hosts Joint Session

The Future Homemakers club at Williams High School hosted FHA session for junior homemaker clubs from Bowman and Armstrong middle schools Nov. 2.

Family relations, sewing, foods, grooming, housing and child development were topics of discussion, and participants constructed mobiles, posters, banners, collages and wrapping papers to illustrate points.

Program participants included Charlotte Clotfelter, Ann Maxie, Kathy Baxter, Tammi Tuttle, Stephanie Brillhart, Jaquita Neighbors and Stephanie Carrey.

Women's Center Hosts Reception

A cocktail reception Dec. 6 at the Women's Center of Dallas, 2001 McKinney, Suite 300, will mark First Tuesday by honoring the American Assn. of University Women from 5 to 9 p.m.

The open house will be the first time First Tuesday has been held in the center's new headquarters on McKinney. Begun by the center early this year, First Tuesday is designed to open lines of communication between various women's organizations in the Dallas area and to develop cooperation and a support system for women.

Bitsy Wesner, community coordinator for the center and co-chairperson with Ruth Bramley for the event, said the occasion attracts a number of men each month and their presence is becoming a part of the First Tuesday tradition.

Neglect: Babies Bounce Back

NEW YORK (UPI) — What's ahead for a baby whose mother hits the bottle pretty hard now and then and whose dad sometimes loses the food money at the racetrack?

The baby may sometimes go hungry.

The baby may suffer other kinds of neglect when mom's in an alcoholic haze. In toddler years, the baby born into such circumstances may be cold, unloved, often ignored.

But, according to Dr. Jerome Kagan, Harvard University professor of human development, this baby born into deprived circumstances and-or neglect will not necessarily be a bum adult.

He said contrary to preachments from child development experts for generations, there often is little connection between a baby's early experiences and the kind of adult it becomes.

Kagan has put together evidence showing the first few years of life are not so important as previously thought. He has found that the immature mind seems to be elastic, springing back to its original shape once the child is removed from potentially harmful or negative surroundings.

Kagan's research will be published by Harvard University Press in the spring. It is called "The Place of Infancy in Development."

He gives a sneak preview of his book in a report in the first issue of Human Nature, a magazine that covers the human sciences in depth.

"Both life and laboratory research could undermine the Western belief that a baby's experiences determine the course of its adult life," Kagan says.

To support that conclusion, he cites eight separate studies of children in a wide range of circumstances — war orphans, middle and working class children, newborns, children in other cultures, and one case of unprecedented early childhood deprivation.

In one study of working and middle class adults in Ohio, Kagan compared these midwesterners at various periods during their childhood to their psychological status as adults.

"We could find little relation between psychological qualities during the first three years of life ... and any aspect of behavior in adulthood," Kagan reports. He adds: "Not until a child was 6 to 10 years old was there any firm evidence that his or her behavior foretold the kind of adult the child would become."

The child development authority tells about a study of children who grew up in isolated Guatemalan villages.

"The infants typically spend their first year confined to a small, dark hut," he reports.

"They are not played with, rarely spoken to, poorly nourished."

"However by adolescence these children perform nearly as well as American children ... (and) can handle some difficult intellectual tasks at a level that approaches that of children who have grown up in more varied and challenging settings." Kagan said in an interview that these and other discoveries about the infant "imply that his first experiences may be permanently lost."

"The fears and joys of the first year seem to be part of mother nature's script for development, not harbingers of adolescent anxiety or prophetic signs of childhood happiness," he said.

Cozy Room Charming As Old English Pub

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. I'm an English-born American and I'd like to create the warmth and charm of an old English pub in our living room.

I look at pictures of all the modern steel furniture and bright lights and I'm turned off.

Please help me to create the ambience I seek in a plain old 1950s ranch house, without making any major structural changes.

I want to buy some furniture because all I have now are cast-offs. Our living room is 18 by 30 feet and the dining area is at one end of the room.

A. What is there about the atmosphere of an old English pub that you particularly like? List those things and you will have established the beginning of a decorating plan for your living room.

Naturally if you start with a home with high ceilings and small paned windows or French doors, you are ahead. But with a simple 1950s ranch house you can do some interesting things. You might start with ivory walls and ceiling.

For the windows create an English look with a floral fabric with many rich deep tones on an ivory background (but be sure the deep colors are dominant). Let's say, for example, the colors were wine, deep blue and brown.

Have drapes made in a tie-back design. Over the windows create a half circle, using the top of the window as the diameter of the half circle.

Shir fabric inside this half circle wooden frame which might be painted a deep brown or stained dark brown. This will give much more drama to your windows and be reminiscent of the important window treatment done in English manors.

For the floor, look for an Oriental rug. It might be a real Oriental or a modestly priced copy of an Oriental. Choose a design that has some deep wine, blue, brown and cream so you will be blending with the draperies.

Then begin shopping in second-hand stores or going to auctions. Many homes today can't accommodate the large pieces on the market so sometimes you can pick up fine old pieces for a bargain. And with a room the size of yours, you might be able to use a large sideboard either for books or dishes or both.

Add a pair of short sofas — perhaps you'd like Queen

Anne legs or perhaps simply a traditional tapestry-like fabric design would be enough to suggest an English flavor.

Serve your beer and wine in small mugs and plates of sandwiches in your handsome room and you should indeed feel transported back into a jolly old pub.

Q. I need help. We need a new carpet and to recover two chairs for our living room.

The walls are antique white and so are the draperies. Our couch has an off-white background with gold flowers and leaves and just a touch of black mixed in. One recliner is gold, black and white, a tweed mostly gold. — J.A.

A. Considering what you have, you could use a pale gold carpeting and then use a gold and white stripe on the two chairs you plan to recover.

Holiday Fashion Show Set at El Centro

The annual Christmas fashion show presented by the sophomore and freshman classes of the apparel and pattern design programs of El Centro College will be held in the Main Lobby of the college at noon on Wednesday, Dec. 14. The public is invited to attend this colorful event.

Various garments made by the students will be modeled for an audience of Dallas fashion industry figures, parents, and the student body. Fran Potter, El Centro's apparel instructor, will narrate the show and music will be provided by Frances Osentowski and his trio.

Original designs for ladies' daytime wear, sportswear, and evening wear will be featured. For further information call 746-2152.

Hill Weds Miss Lofye

In Saturday Ceremony Here

Father Claude Smythe was officiant for the 7 p.m. ceremony at St. Mark's Catholic Church Saturday which united in marriage LeeAnn Marie Lofye of Richardson and Ricky Lee Hill of Plano.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jordan M. Lofye of Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. James I. Hill of Plano.

Seven-branch candelabra entwined with greenery flanked the altar arrangement of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, and traditional wedding music was played by Ed Schaefer.

The bride was preceded down the aisle by her attendants, her sister Marsha as maid of honor and D'Ann Furrh of Richardson, bridesmaid. Each wore a formal gown of navy blue with V-neckline and butterfly sleeves. Their bouquets were of multi-colored blossoms and baby's breath.

Flower girl was another sister of the bride, Denise Lofye. She wore a light blue floral print dress.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the former Miss Lofye was attired in a polyester crystal gown enhanced by re-embroidered Chantilly lace. The formal gown was styled with sweetheart neckline and modified train with attached bow. Her cathedral-length veil billowed from a Juliet cap of lace and pearls and was edged in Chantilly lace. Blue and white carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath with blue streamers made up the bridal bouquet.

The bridegroom was attended by Rod Graham of Plano as best man and Kent Hummell, also of Plano, who served as a groomsman and usher. Also ushering was Scott Lofye, brother of the bride.

The wedding reception was held at the church activity building. Fresh blossoms in various hues graced the bride's table, which also held the three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bridal couple.

Members of the houseparty were Jamie Haverfield and Becki Hummell, both of Plano, Kris Schaaf of Dallas and Taryn Kedzie of Houston. They were graduated from Plano Senior High School in 1975. She attended East Texas State University and Richland College, and he attended Richland. He is presently in the U.S. Air Force.

The couple departed at the close of the reception for a wedding trip to New York. They will make their home at Lockport Air Force Base in New York.

The chapter's Holiday Hopabout and ornament exchange was held Saturday.

Mrs. Snider Weds Jordan Nov. 27

Mrs. Judy T. Snider of Plano and Floyd Nowlin Jordan of Novato, Calif., were married Sunday, Nov. 27, in an afternoon ceremony at First United Methodist Church of Plano. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Don F. Renshaw, was officiant.

The bride was given in marriage by her son, Scott Snider. Her attendants were her daughters, Sally and Cindy Snider.

The sons of the bridegroom, Mike and Bob Jordan of San Jose, Calif., were his attendants.

A reception followed the wedding at Los Rios Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Biggerstaff were hosts.

Out-of-state guests sharing the occasion with the bride couple were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jordan, parents of the bridegroom from Vallejo, Calif.; Mrs. Dale Miller of Juneau, Alaska, and Mrs. Gordon Furze of Mountain View, Calif.

Mrs. Jordan is the daughter of Mrs. Howard E. Tuggey of Dallas and is a graduate of North Texas State University. Her husband was graduated from Southern Methodist University and is regional vice president of Covenant Life Insurance Co.

Stitching Witchery

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

If I asked you, "Do you have a Wait Basket?" what would you reply? Probably, "What's a Wait Basket?"

A Wait Basket is what you take along when you are going to be waiting — at the doctor's office, for the children, for hubby, for anything or anyone.

It can be made from a handled one-half-peck fruit basket, a wooden cheese box, a tote bag, or even a heavy plastic bag from a department store. What it is made from is not as important as what goes in it.

Into your Wait Basket put quilt blocks, hemming, embroidery work, mending, ripping, stationery, pen, and/or a good paperback.

When you must wait, work a little. And a Wait Basket by your phone can help get you through those l-o-n-g conversations.

With the loose, unstructured styles, we can stitch up a new garment in no time at all — the Baggy Skirt, for example.

Choose a fabric that has an attractive "wrong side." Buy your length from waist to ankle plus four inches for hem and casing, plus one-half-yard for pockets.

The width of the fabric should be at least your hip measurement plus 10 inches to 12 inches. Wider is better.

Use contrasting thread for ALL stitching. Buy a length of heavy cord as long as your waist measurement plus 20 inches to 24 inches.

Stitch your skirt length to make center back seam. If the selvages are included, clip them every few inches to prevent puckering.

Press seam to one side, topstitch in zigzag stitch, trim seam allowances near stitching.

Turn top edge of the skirt to the outside to form casing. Make a large buttonhole in front of casing halfway between center front and side. Turn under one-fourth inch at raw edge, topstitch casing to skirt using a zigzag stitch. Turn hem to outside, turn under one-half inch of raw edge and topstitch as you did casing.

Cut two pouchy pockets from the extra one-half-yard of fabric. The pockets should be at least as long as your forearm. Turn top edge of pocket to outside and finish as you did casing and hem. Press under remaining raw edges of pocket, position on skirt, having bottom edge of pockets at knees. Topstitch pockets to skirt. Run heavy cording through casing buttonhole, knot ends.

QUICK STITCH: If you need help with your skirt, send for Baggy Skirt Leaflet, 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Turn small scraps into a Marshmallow Purse — Leaflet is 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Forum Announces December Agenda

The holiday happenings at Citizens Bank Center in Richardson have been so arranged that you will have that jovial Christmas spirit long before Dec. 25.

On Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 7:30 p.m., Citizens Forum For Women will present Marty Hinkelbein on "Deck The Halls With Something Besides Holly." She is associated with one of Dallas' leading specialty stores. Her presentation on ideas for holiday decorating for your house and your table, gift wrapping and a myriad of other ideas are simply fantastic. Reservations are required. Call Billye Meyer at 231-7171 for information and reservations.

Brent Ritter, well-known vocalist, will be performing in the Citizens Bank lobby on Dec. 15 at 11:30 a.m.

The Christmas holidays would not be complete without the voices of young people singing Christmas carols. The Richardson School District's elementary school choirs will be performing at noon (except for Skyview at 4 p.m.) at Citizens Bank Center with the following schedule:

Dec. 5	Northwood Hills
Dec. 6	Mohawk
Dec. 7	Yale
Dec. 8	Spring Valley
Dec. 9	Terrace
Dec. 9	Skyview
Dec. 12	Hamilton Park
Dec. 13	Canyon Creek
Dec. 14	Greenwood Hills
Dec. 16	Dartmouth

Your Birthday

Dec. 5, 1977

Enterprises of a creative nature are likely to have special appeal for you this coming year. You could become involved in something that is not only exciting, but profitable as well. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you want to do something nice for your pals today, that's commendable, and you should do it. If your motive is to gain more in return, forget it. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each sign and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, NY 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do nothing to oppose your innate high standards just to win approval. Self-respect is more important. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're apt to rely far more on others today than you should. Control of important issues may slip from your hands. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Tread warily in joint ventures today. One of two things might occur. You could overlook an opportunity or you may receive less than you're entitled to.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Dealings with close friends should prove fortunate today. However, arrangements with business contemporaries might not be so lucky. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Abide by your pragmatic instincts today, not your ethereal ones and the results will be gratifying. Wishful thinking won't cut it.

Your Birthday

Dec. 4, 1977

You're willing to work as hard as necessary to attain your goals this coming year and probably will succeed. Once you've accumulated some cash, don't blow it all at once. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An influential friend may tell you about a plan in a way that leads you to believe you're invited in. Unless he spells it out, don't bank on it. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each sign and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Avoid making any judgments today until you weigh all the facts. You tend to be a little biased in your initial viewpoints. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone who wants something from you today could make you some rather lavish promises. Unfortunately, none are like to be redeemable. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today, steer clear of pessimists. They will only dampen your enthusiastic outlook and bring you down to their own gloomy level.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a possibility today you could deny something to your family or a loved one and then turn around and tell friends just the opposite. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Make no insincere promises to a person who has a deeper feeling for you than you have for her. Practice duplicity and you'll sacrifice self-respect. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't try to use social contacts for selfish purposes today. Somebody may see through your little game. You'll lose points in your peer group.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Medicine may help

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been on a cholesterol-restricted diet for about a year, but my cholesterol is still 274 and my triglyceride count is 360. I am 70 years old. I am not overweight.

I eat no lunch meats of any kind, eat only meat with the fat removed three to four times a week, non-fat milk, corn oil margarine, but to no avail.

I do eat a slice of cheddar cheese each morning as I understand a person needs some cholesterol for the body.

A friend of mine takes Atromid-S. Do you think it would be advisable for me to take those capsules also — with a doctor's prescription, of course?

DEAR READER — In patients who have followed faithfully a good dietary program and are not overweight, it is sometimes helpful to use medicines to control the triglyceride and cholesterol levels. Medicines should not be considered as a substitute for sensible dietary management. Atromid-S is one of the medicines that has been used. There are some new medicines that have been marketed in recent months that your doctor may want to try also.

The body can form its own cholesterol, even from sugar if need be. You don't need to eat any foods to provide some cholesterol for your body, it will make its own.

To give you more information, I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis. Others who want these diet principles can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have some questions about lie detector tests that I think you could answer. My sister had an electrocardiogram which concerned her doctor, so he had another test done with very different results.

A young man I know tried three times to get into the Navy and couldn't pass the physical because his pressure shot way up. During the same time, he saw his own doctor several times, and his pressure was normal on all the visits.

Another young man wanting to prove his innocence on a criminal matter eagerly took the lie detector test, but to his dismay the results came out that he knew about or was implicated in the crime. The young man did not commit the crime, but did have suspicions as to who did.

Would not the lie detector test he took be the same as the variable results people experience with electrocardiograms and blood pressure readings? Many people became excited or upset during any kind of test, and I cannot see how this stress test could be very accurate. I'd appreciate your comments.

DEAR READER — At best, it is just a laboratory test, and laboratory tests of all types can be inaccurate for many reasons. The lie detector test depends upon changes in blood pressure, heart rate, and a change in electrical resistance in the skin. All of these can and do respond to stress.

The value of the lie detector test depends a great deal on the experience of the person who gives and interprets the test. A person who is up-tight because he is confronted for any reason should show this on the test even when the operator knows he is telling the truth.

Knowing the infinite capacity of human beings to err, I would think any lie detector test results could be challenged and often a second test with a second opinion from a different operator may be indicated.

Waters Family

The Waters Family of Washington, N.C., are appearing in concert at 10:45 a.m. today at First Christian Church, 1501 Ave. H. The group is made up of Maynard Waters, his wife Kay and pianist Ken Joyner. The presentation, which includes standard favorites as well as original religious songs, is highlighted by a brief message presented by Waters.

There's an Answer!

Deaf daughter depressed

Q. We have an 18-year-old daughter who was born with a birth defect. She only hears a little and has a speech defect, but she has the gift of lip reading. She was 11 before the doctors found her trouble. With lots of hours spent helping her with homework she passed through high school. Now she can find no job because of her handicap. She is shy and stays alone and cries a lot. She doesn't think anyone can help her now. Can you give us any advice?

A. Many people with similar afflictions have lived creative and even highly successful lives. Helen Keller, for example, could neither see nor hear, but became a talented and world-famous writer and speaker.

Your job, it seems to us, is to help your daughter arrive at a positive attitude, one of self-belief, an optimistic outlook. Get her to read books of a positive nature that will motivate her to know that people can rise above any handicap.

Many businesses welcome handicapped persons as employees. Investigate your locality for organizations that place handicapped persons in suitable jobs.

We have a booklet, Three Days to See, by Helen Keller, which has helped many others, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write for one. Address your request to Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Two-faced husband

Q. I have a moody husband with split personality and jealous. Around certain people he's the jolliest person you could find. But with others he is sulky and makes cracky remarks that are sarcastic. Talks about things he knows absolutely nothing about. He's two-faced, takes sides with whoever he's talking to. He's a great brown-noser and loves to gossip. You're his good friend to his face and he might cut your throat to your

BIBLE SURPRISES

Floyd Jeter

GROUP MARRIAGES ARE NEW. Surprise! Matt. 24:38, Christ was speaking. "For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the ark." Gen. 6:2 "and took wives of all which they chose." verse 5 "And God saw the wickedness of men." This was certainly group marriage. Prostitution was included in most major religions before Christ except the One God. Worship. The Easter Islanders practiced group marriage and children were community property with the surplus girl babies being eaten.

back. In a game for fun he's a poor loser. He loves me very much and is good to me. But he acts different when my children from a former marriage visit us. I could go on and on. I want to know something to help him before he ruins his life with everyone.

A. In your question some of your husband's good points are revealed. He can be very jolly; he can act a good friend; he loves you and is good to you.

We wonder if there are not other good points you could find. What your husband needs is to be built up from a faltering ego. People who act as he does need some person who loves them to buttress their good points. That will help diminish the less attractive qualities.

So really start believing in him. His better personality will emerge.

KNOWING GOD

Dear Mr. Swaim, how can we know God? I have a very close friend who says that he can learn as much about God by watching a beautiful sunset or looking at flowers than he can by going to church or reading the Bible.

It is true that "the heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament sheweth forth his handiwork" (Psalms 19:1). It is equally true that man cannot know God in the ultimate sense through nature alone. The word of God has been given to us for purposes. One of those is to reveal God's nature to us and to share with us what He expects. It is impossible to get this detailed information simply from observing nature. Nature and its beauty are supplementary evidence as to the existence of God and His love and care for us, but the Bible is written that we might know Christ perfectly and that we might come to find salvation in Him. "...These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing, ye might have life through His name" (John 20:31).

It sounds as if this person is looking for an excuse not to attend church or study the word of God. So many people will go to any extent to eliminate restrictions in their lives. To me, this is a cop-out, and any person who gives serious thought to the situation will realize that one cannot learn as much about God or Christ, or even about himself, from simply looking at nature as he can through a study of God's word, for God's word reveals to us in explicit detail God's nature and our relationship and responsibilities to Him.

For a confidential and Biblical answer to your question, write Larry Swaim, 985 Ponce de Leon Avenue, NE, Atlanta, Georgia 30306.

Commentary:

Dorothy Day at 80

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

Dorothy Day has been called America's only living saint but it is an accolade she would spurn.

"Don't dismiss me that easily," she once told an interviewer.

A devout Roman Catholic, a pacifist, an anarchist, an intellectual, she is best known as the founder and guiding spirit of what may be the nation's most successful antipoverty program — the Catholic Worker Movement.

The movement is 45 years old now and as Miss Day turns 80 it has spread from its beginnings in New York's Bowery across the land to the point where there is probably no major city without a Catholic Worker hospitality house, soup kitchen or medical clinic for the most destitute of the poor.

In addition, there are 12 farms spread around the country and Miss Day and her followers, long before the back-to-the-land vogue, were firmly convinced of the value of agrarian communal living.

And it is all done without a penny of government help. Indeed, if any government funds do happen to stray to the movement they are promptly returned to the government.

When two years ago the Internal Revenue Service attempted to collect back taxes from the Catholic Worker, Miss Day refused — as she has refused to vote, seek tax exemptions or cooperate with the government in most ways — and public opinion quickly rallied to her support. The IRS backed off.

The Catholic Worker is based on the simplest, literal but most radical interpretation of the New Testament: take all that you have and give it to the poor. For the Catholic Worker that has meant the poorest of the poor.

"It is a strange vocation to love the destitute and dissolute, those people sleeping in doorways, foul with the filth of the gutter, dying of drunkenness and malnutrition, fever and cold," she once told writer Colman McCarthy.

But it is a vocation she has consistently followed for the last 45 years after "giving up" the fashionable intellectual circles of Greenwich Village of the 1920s.

With co-worker Peter Maurin, another restless reformer with a vision of the Christian idea of the good society, she founded the Catholic Worker newspaper, hawked on the streets of New York for a penny a copy — the price at which it still remains.

The newspaper is still one of the most influential in "radical" Christian circles. Certainly, the movement was the inspiration for the rise of the Roman Catholic antiwar movement — characterized by militant nonviolence and civil disobedience — in the 1960s.

Church Notes

FLUTE, CELLO AND PIANO SOLOISTS will be presented during the Advent vesper service at Briarwood United Methodist Church at 5 p.m. today. The nursery will be open. Also at Briarwood, a charge conference for election of officers—open to the whole church—is set for Dec. 11 at 6 p.m.

NEWLY-ELECTED MEMBERS OF THE BOARD at First Christian Church are to meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. The nominating committee will present a slate of candidates for the board officers' posts for the coming year.

DECEMBER 11 IS DEDICATION DAY, Missions Dedication Day, that is, at First Baptist Church. The Dedication Day will focus attention on the giving of the Christmas Missions Offering, which has a goal at First Baptist of $30,000 this year.

Richmond Appointed

Harold W. Richmond, 2520 Walnut Ln., was appointed president of the Dallas North Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints at the church's quarterly conference in Richardson Nov. 27. He was set apart in this office by Bruce R. McConkie, member of the Council of Twelve Apostles in Salt Lake City, who presided at the conference. L. Hilton Kennedy and Perry Fisher of Dallas were set apart as First and Second Counselor in the Presidency. The new Stake Presidency will preside over and conduct the affairs of the church in North Dallas, Plano, Richardson, Farmers Branch, McKinney, Sherman and Denison. Richmond has been serving as First Counselor in the Presidency since May.

Live Music, Ballroom Dance Return

BY FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

NEW YORK (UPI) — Live music for dancing seems to be making a comeback around the nation at the very moment that disco dancing is enjoying record popularity.

When a patrician hotel like the St. Regis-Sheraton introduces live dance music on a six-nights-a-week basis, as it did this month, the trend seems to have jelled.

Live music has been a tradition never abandoned in some cities — Minneapolis, for instance, boasts live music in nearly 50 bars, restaurants and ballrooms. But in most cities musicians have gradually been replaced by disc jockeys.

"There's a definite move to reverse the dependence on canned music and disco dancing," said Michael M. Schweiger, managing director of the St. Regis, as he showed off the newly redecorated King Cole Restaurant. A Peter Duchin combo of four musicians, instead of fiddlers three, make merry there Monday through Saturday evenings after dinner. To make it more attractive, there is no service charge.

"We're thinking about reintroducing tea dancing before dinner, too," Schweiger said of an experiment that already has been tried successfully one night a week by Hyatt chain hotels in Boston, Washington, New Orleans, Los Angeles and San Francisco. "I think there is an audience for it. We won't know until we try."

The tea dance, a fatality of World War II, was a pleasant bridge between the end of the work day and dinner when couples, fueled by Earl Gray or darjeeling, pretended to be Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers.

Whether or not live music eventually will edge out canned is not yet evident. All west coast Hilton hotels have live music for dancing. The Sheraton New Orleans, which will open in 1979, will have a room for dancing to live music. The Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles has revived ballroom dancing in its Garden Room and discontinued its discotheque.

"Due to apparent lack of popularity, we phased it out," explained Esmail Lotfi, the Plaza's restaurateur.

In New York, discos have reached the saturation point and range from the chic Studio 54 to the speakeasy-style ones near the lower Manhattan docks. The never-fading Roseland and the Rainbow Room atop the RCA Building, which offers Sy Oliver's nostalgic rhythms every night except Monday, have been the only major spots for ballroom dancing in town.

Now the St. Regis-Sheraton, the city's oldest luxury hotel long an Astor family property, provides a third dance arena in the updated King Cole Grille. The sleek look of white walls, mirrors and burnished golden balustrades around a newly sunken dance floor have replaced the paneled, faintly men's club atmosphere of the old grille.

Only the beautiful shell-like Art Deco ceiling and the grandiose triptych mural of Old King Cole and his court by Maxfield Parrish, which have dominated the grille's bar since 1948, remain. King

Cole is insured for $350,000 and Sheraton has invested more than $100,000 in three more Parrishes — "Child Harvester," "Solitude," and "Cleopatra," painted between 1896 and 1917 — to further glamorize the restaurant and its foyer.

The King Cole room has a cozy capacity of 175 for dancing to the music of piano, bass, guitar and drum. On the flip side is the 4,000 capacity of San Francisco's Hyatt Regency's atrium lobby, one of architect John Portman's masterly uses of vast interior space. Tea dancing there from 5-8 p.m. Fridays is often a sold-out affair, offering a 16-piece band, lavish tea and crumpets service — though wine and cocktails are popular substitutes.

"We get all age groups," reported Donna Barron, a spokesperson for the Hyatt chain. "Ballroom dancing doesn't seem to be just for the middle-aged, as everyone thinks."

Touch dancing does, however, seem to be the preserve of the over-30 set. A visit to any disco demonstrates the inroads that non-touch duo or group dancing has made on any semblance of two people actually dancing together. Disco dancers do their own thing with abandon and often with their own sex.

Old King Cole would not have been amused.

IREF Admits Metro Realtors

Paula L. Stringer, Steve C. Stringer, and Jan Noebel, of Paula Stringer, REALTORS, have been admitted to membership in the International Real Estate Federation, through its American Chapter, an affiliate of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS, it was announced today by President J.D. Sawyer, of Naples, Florida.

The organization lists among its objectives the promotion of high professional standards and good relations among individuals engaged in the real estate profession in all nations and the encouragement of the private ownership of real property and understanding of its obligations.

The International Real Estate Federation was organized in 1956 and today has members in most of the developed FreeWorld countries. Headquartered in Paris, the IREF holds its Congress (convention) in a different country each year. In 1973 the World Congress was held in Sydney, Australia; in 1974 in Madrid, Spain; in 1975 in Paris, France; and in 1977 in Amsterdam, the Netherlands. In 1976 the United States was host to the Congress held in San Francisco, California. In 1978 the Congress will be held June 3-10 in Hamburg, Germany.

Members of the Chapter, through their participation in the annual Congress, develop international friendships and valuable business contacts with colleagues in other countries, and exchange ideas on business methods and techniques.

The more than 1,400 members of the American Chapter receive a quarterly bulletin direct from the Federation's International headquarters office in Paris.

Realtor of the Year

Herb Becker, owner of Shirley Becker Realtors in Plano and Richardson was elected Realtor of the Year by the Collin County Board of Realtors. The 1977 president of the Collin County Board has been involved with the Plano community for several years and was elected for outstanding service in his profession.

Salesperson of the Year

Aline Dunn, associated with Plano Real Estate, was named Salesperson of the Year at the Collin County Board meeting recently. Aline has been connected with many civic organizations in Plano as well as real estate groups. The 1977 president of the Women's Council of Realtors is the mother of two boys, Chris and Conoly.

Exclusive List'nings

By Sheree Stringer

Four agents from the Plano Office of Paula Stringer, Inc. Realtors attended the annual convention of the National Association of Realtors in Miami Beach, Florida November 13-17. Attending were: Jeri Tolbert, Joann Fry, Maryanne McDonald and Val Sicard, Vice President and Sales manager of the Plano office.

Margaret Woollett, sales associate at Red Carpet Realtors, 1715 Avenue K, closed over $500,000 in sales this month just in time for her clients to hang their stockings for Santa. Margaret, winner of Red Carpet's Master Award of sales of 2 million last year, will be topping that mark this year with sales of over 3 million dollars. Congratulations!

According to Stark Royall, manager for the First Mark Realtors in Plano, three women of his office won the top sales awards for November. The awards are divided up into three categories: Top Sales- Nancy Wolfe, Top Lister-Rayleen Turnbow, Top in Fundings (or closings)- Gene Lowell.

Please make reservations to attend the annual Collin County Board of Realtors Christmas party December 16th. There are only 300 tickets members! After these are sold, none will be available. While I'm on the subject of the Board, I want to congratulate the Realtor of the Year, Herb Becker and Salesperson of the Year, Aline Dunn. Herb and Aline were elected by a committee for their outstanding involvement in the Board, Community and their profession.

Despite rising energy costs and declining birth rates, Americans still are buying large homes, according to the National Association of Realtors. In 1976, 26.6 per cent of existing homes sold in the United States had four or more bedrooms, only 2 per cent below the percentage recorded in 1975. Homes in the four-or-more bedroom category have grown in popularity from 22.4 per cent in 1968 to the present level.

Site Purchased for Home Furniture Store

David Davidson of Davidson Real Estate has announced the purchase of 120,000 square feet in Plano, Texas for a new Home Furniture Store.

The property located at the southwest corner of Custer Road and Parker Road was purchased from Kendrick Development Company, Ltd. by Julian Barry for approximately $240,000.

Julian Barry will be the contractor for the construction of a 30,000 square foot building to be located in Custer Park Shopping Center. Opening date is set for April 1, 1978.

Home Furniture Company founded in 1919 is owned by C.M. Hudson with fourteen stores in Texas.

The furniture and appliance product line includes: Basset, Southland, Sealy, General Electric, Norge and Sylvania.

The transaction was closed by Nancy Goodstein at Plano Title Company.

Experts Headline Meet

Top names from the Administration and Congress along with recognized experts in all fields of housing will headline 80 educational programs at the 34th Annual Convention-Exposition of the National Association of Home Builders in January.

NAHB President Robert Arquilla said special attention will be paid to small volume builder interests and concerns. Energy, financing and marketing will be the featured subjects. Other programs will discuss business operations, growth issues, construction and production techniques, federal programs, dealing with consumers and the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, site planning and development, multifamily housing and management, architectural design, remodeling, and small commercial and industrial opportunities.

According to Arquilla, the programs are planned to offer something of value for everyone in the building industry: developers, builders, suppliers, subcontractors, financial and real estate interests. Of particular interest will be a program discussing NAHB's new voluntary guidelines for conserving energy. The Thermal Performance Guidelines for One and Two Family Dwellings enable builders throughout the country to offer a cost-effective and balanced package of energy conserving features in their new homes.

The four-day meeting of the 94,000 member association begins January 22, at the Dallas, Texas, convention center.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO BIDDERS OF THE CITY OF PLANO'S INTENTION TO PURCHASE MATERIALS, SUPPLIES, EQUIPMENT AND MACHINERY AND TO DELIVER CERTIFICATES OF OBLIGATION (OR CLAIMS AND ACCOUNTS REPRESENTING AN UNDIVIDED INTEREST THEREIN) IN PAYMENT OF ALL OR A PORTION OF THE COST THEREOF

SEALED PROPOSALS, addressed to the City Council of the City of Plano, Texas, will be received at the office of the City Manager, City Hall, Plano, Texas, until 9:00 o'clock A.M., on the 20th day of December, 1977, for the furnishing of certain materials, supplies, equipment and machinery, and at such time and place all such proposals will be publicly opened and read. Such proposals will then be referred to the City's purchasing agent for review and tabulation and then be submitted to the City Council at its regular meeting place, City Hall, Plano, Texas, at 7:30 o'clock p.m. on the 23rd day of January, 1978, for acceptance or rejection.

COMPLETE specifications and bidding documents are on file with the City Secretary where they may be examined without charge. Copies thereof may be obtained from the City Purchasing Agent. The materials, supplies, equipment and machinery upon which bids will be received are:

- 5-Mobile Radios (100 watts transceivers)
 - 10-Electronic sirens-speaker (including amplifier and microphone)
 - 1-Heavy duty truck bed (dump body)
 - 1-Two ton flat bed truck, cab & chassis
 - 1-Two ton flat bed truck, cab & chassis
 - 1-One ton flat bed truck, cab & chassis
 - 1-Bobtail 5 yd. dump truck, cab & chassis

 - 1-truck, cab & chassis for vacuum sweeper
 - 1-10 cu. yd. vacuum sweeper and catch basin cleaner
 - 3-residential collection garbage body
 - 1-tire repair machine and attachments
- Reference should be made to the complete specifications for an additional description of the items upon which bids will be received.

BIDDERS may submit proposals on one or more items. All unit prices must be stated in both script and figures. In case of ambiguity or lack of clearness in stating price in the bids, the City reserves the right to consider the most advantageous contraction thereof or to reject the bid.

ALL BIDS must be submitted on the forms provided and must specify the delivery time required on all items included therein if the delivery time is more than 30 days.

NOTICE is hereby further given that the City proposes to pay all or part of the contractual obligations to be incurred through the issuance and delivery of such amount of the $525,000 "City of Plano, Texas, Certificates of Obligation, Series 1977" (as authorized by an ordinance passed and adopted on the 24th day of October, 1977) as shall be required. Such certificates mature in the years 1982-1991 and are payable from taxation. Reference is made to the aforesaid authorizing order for a full and complete description of the terms of such certificates. Claims and accounts (representing an undivided interest in such certificates) may be delivered to the contractor.

THE CITY has made arrangements for the successful bidder to assign any certificates of obligation or claims and accounts to a financial institution at the price of par flat (no accrued interest) or the successful bidder may elect to retain the certificates or claims and accounts. Each bidder shall be required (at the time of the receipt of bids) to elect whether he will accept such certificates (and/or claims and accounts) in payment of all or a part of the contract price or assign the same in accordance with such arrangements. Claims

The following Ordinances were passed by the Plano City Council: Title and Penalty Clause only:

Ordinance No. 77-11-15 of the City of Plano, Collin County, Texas, amending the comprehensive zoning ordinance of the city, Ordinance No. 71-4-2, as heretofore amended, so as to permanently zone 4.164 acres of land in the George White Survey, Abstract No. 993, and a part of the S.M. Pulliam Survey, Abstract No. 707, Collin County, Texas, and giving the property an agriculture classification, directing a change accordingly in the official zoning map of the city, and providing a penalty clause, a severability clause and an effective date.

That any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions or terms of this ordinance shall be subject to the same penalty as provided for in the comprehensive zoning ordinance of the City of Plano as heretofore amended, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not to exceed the sum of two hundred dollars ($200.00) for each offense, and each and every day such violation shall continue shall be deemed to constitute a separate offense.

Ordinance No. 77-11-16 of the City of Plano, Collin County, Texas, amending the comprehensive zoning ordinance of the city, Ordinance No. 71-4-2, as heretofore amended, so as to rezone 10+ acres of land, giving said land a planned development-light industrial-2 classification, out of the G.H. Pegues Survey, Abstract No. 700, directing a change accordingly in the official zoning map of the city, and providing a penalty clause, a severability clause and an effective date.

That any person, firm, or corporation violating any of the provisions or terms of this ordinance shall be subject to the same penalty as provided for in the comprehensive zoning ordinance of the City of Plano, as heretofore amended, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not to exceed the sum of two hundred dollars ($200.00) for each offense, and each and every day such violation shall continue shall be deemed to constitute a separate offense.

Ordinance No. 77-11-17 of the City of Plano, Collin County, Texas, amending the comprehensive zoning ordinance of the city, Ordinance No. 71-4-2, as heretofore amended, so as to rezone 57.3+ acres of land SF-2 and retail, out of the Daniel Rowlett Survey, Abstract No. 738, directing a change accordingly in the official zoning map of the city, and providing a penalty clause, a severability clause and an effective date.

That any person, firm, or corporation violating any of the provisions or terms of this ordinance shall be subject to the same penalty as provided for in the comprehensive zoning ordinance of the City of Plano, as heretofore amended, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not to exceed the sum of two hundred dollars ($200.00) for each offense, and each and every day such violation shall continue shall be deemed to constitute a separate offense.

Bacon Cheddar Pinwheels

Can Be Made Ahead Kitchen Tested Recipe

- 20 slices white sandwich bread (from crusts)
- 1 can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk
- 1/4 cup prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 pounds sliced bacon
- 2 cups (8-oz.) shredded sharp cheddar cheese

Roll bread flat with rolling pin; set aside. In small bowl, combine sweetened condensed milk, mustard, and Worcestershire sauce. Cut bacon slices in half and lay 1/2 halves closely together (just touching) on flat surface; place bread on top and spread with one rounded tablespoon of sweetened condensed milk mixture. Sprinkle 1 generous tablespoon of cheese on top. Roll bacon around bread jelly-roll fashion; secure each bacon piece with toothpick. Repeat procedure; chill up to 24 hours. Pre-heat oven to 375°. With sharp knife, make 1 pinwheels by carefully cutting between each bacon strip. Bake on broiler tray for 30 minutes or until bacon is done. Refrigerate any leftovers. * To freeze before baking, place on cookie sheet and cover. Bake frozen or thawed.

Xmas Arrives Early With Jaycee Parade

Thousands of Planoiters lined the parade route from Williams High School to Palisades Square Shopping Center Thursday evening as the Jaycees sponsored their annual Christmas parade.

Participating in the event, which had as its theme "Christmas Around the World," were bands from local high schools, the Junior ROTC and its color guard and drill teams, YMCA Indian Guides, the Plano Civic Chorus, dozens of other entrants and, of course, Santa Claus.

Grand Marshal for this year's parade was State Representative Bob Hendricks, who was chauffeured by Buddy Carpenter.

Jaycee Joe Martinez, chairman of the event, expressed his thanks to the Plano Police Department and local C.B. radio'ers for "a beautiful job" in helping to route the parade.

Healthiness Gift of Lifetime

You cannot buy one of the best Christmas gifts at a department store or give it to someone like a box of candy. But many unusual Christmas gifts can help people make themselves more healthy.

Healthiness is a gift that can last a lifetime—and make a lifetime last longer, the Texas Medical Association says.

Since the holiday season is torture for many people wanting to lose weight, giving low-calorie sweets and snacks can be a big boost for morale and provide a tasty escape from the sugary sweets and other fattening foods bombarding people in December.

Lessons in tennis, golf or other sports can be an enjoyable, exercise-oriented gift with many long-lasting benefits besides weight and stress reduction.

Parks departments, YMCAs, YWCAs, churches, hobby clubs, schools and individuals are just a few places to check for lessons and group activities.

Sports equipment comes in all price ranges and also can add to a person's enjoyment of a game.

Giving a trial membership in a medically reliable exercise club or weight reducing program may encourage someone who would not invest either the time or money on his own. No one can be forced to exercise or lose weight but if someone shows any inclination at all, he or she might appreciate a membership.

When looking at different programs, generally avoid places that stress "no effort" exercising, fasting, milkshake diets, gimmicks such as body wraps, injections and other fads. Take a hard look at programs themselves and do not be fooled by official-sounding names.

Another type of gift may be appreciated by friends who are hesitant to seek medical or dental treatment on their own.

If someone wants treatment but has been putting it off, a check for all or part of a check-up can be a lot of encouragement. Call physicians and dentists for fee estimates.

One of the best gifts anyone can get is a helping hand. Try giving a "gift certificate" for a certain amount of your own labor, lessons or other services for anything from washing the car to babysitting.

These gifts are economical and can give the recipient time for some relaxation. These mental breathers can be especially nice after a hectic holiday season.

For the person who has everything, a donation to a charity in his or her name can help other people and convey the same friendly message as a needless trinket.

Sometimes not giving a gift is the nicest thing to do. The person who has everything, including smoking, weight or alcohol problems, does not need tobacco, fattening foods or liquor. There are a lot of things to give besides presents that help kill your friends.

Government Guide Offered by League

The Plano League of Women Voters wants to tell you about your elected officials—who they are, what they do and how to reach them.

The league has compiled a brochure entitled "Citizen's Guide to Government" which lists elected officials on the national and state level as well as in Collin County and the City of Plano.

Free copies of the brochure which the league describes as "educational" in purpose may be obtained at the public library, Chamber of Commerce and school offices.

The publication was financed by contributions from Plano area businesses.

A foreword in the brochure states that the "Citizen's Guide" was prepared to encourage public participation in government.

Home Ec Not Just Cooking

HECE Program Involves Variety of Subjects

(Editor's Note: The following is the third in a series of five articles describing the various vocational education programs offered for Plano students).

By NANCY LONG
PISD Information Office

Seventy-four junior and senior students are receiving supervised on-the-job training in occupations requiring home economics knowledge through participation in the home economics cooperative education (HECE) program at Plano Senior High School.

The training is conducted through the cooperation of local businesses with the school. As is the case in all five of the Plano Senior High School cooperative training programs, students attend classes for one-half day and then are released to work for one-half day in local business establishments in one of the approved home economics related occupations.

Included in the cooperative training requirements are one hour daily classroom instruction and a minimum of 15 hours of supervised employment per school week.

Acceptable occupations for the students are arts and crafts aides, bridal consultants, child care aides, clothing assistants, companions to the elderly, consumer aide, dietician aide, fabric coordinator, floral designer, food caterer, food service employee, home furnishings aide, housekeeping management assistant, physical fitness assistant and tester of foods, equipment and textiles.

"As is obvious from the list of available occupations, we in homemaking are getting away from just cooking and sewing," remarked Patti Berry, teacher and coordinator.

The program was enlarged this year to include another HECE teacher, Betty Roether.

The teachers discuss employer-employee relations and general business concepts such as banking and income tax during their one-hour daily session. In addition, they provide knowledge and skills that would aid in advancement in the selected homemaking occupations.

"We really get involved with our students," Mrs. Berry related. "In a school this large, this is one class where the students know somebody."

Presently the majority of the HECE students are female, however the teachers would like to see more participation from the male students.

"We are interested in seeing more boys in the program. It is just as important for the guys to get interested in homemaking as well as the girls," Mrs. Berry said.

Basic qualifications for the program are similar to those of all of the cooperative training programs. Students need to be 16 years of age or older, enrolled in grades 11 or 12, have an interest in developing occupational competence in a home economics related field, have the aptitude and qualifications necessary for success in an occupation, be legally employable and able to succeed in academic studies.

Some of the students come into the program already with jobs, Mrs. Berry indicated. The teachers find jobs for the other students and make periodic on site visits to all of their students at their places of employment.

Cooperative training programs are funded through the state and federal governments which makes for a heavy amount of paper work for the teachers. For each student they are required to file a training plan with the state and then conduct five-year follow-up studies on the students to see how many continue on working in home economics related occupations and how many study in related fields in college.

Mrs. Berry noted that thus far data shows that at least one half of the students are remaining in related jobs.

"These students learn salable skills so those who want to pay their way through college are trained in a field that will bring in some money," Mrs. Berry said.

More homemaking skills and leadership qualities are emphasized in the Home Economics Related Occupations Club (HERO).

It Only Hurts When I Think

Thinking is unpopular in some quarters these days, but Unitarian Universalists see thought as one way of expressing religious values. Thought helps everyone make better decisions about very complex questions. But thought in isolation is always incomplete. That's one reason Unitarian Universalists come together, so they can share their ideas about life with one another. Come and join us with your ideas.

For information about this unique approach to religion, call 231-8512.

Soccer Club Sells Fertilizer

Fertilizer especially compatible for Plano and Richardson lawns goes on sale Monday to raise money for the Spartans F.C. (soccer club).

Members of the club will take orders for the Nipak fertilizer with delivery scheduled for the week of January 16.

A club spokesman described Nipak as a Long-lasting fertilizer in a 15-10-5 mixture and containing nitrogen, phosphate, potash and 12 percent sulphur.

Cost of the fertilizer will be $5 per bag. Two bags will cover an average-size lawn.

Eastside residents may order fertilizer by calling Bob Bloomer at 424-2358 or Curtis Moldenhauer at 423-5072. Westside delivery can be arranged by calling Addison Curry at 423-3967 or Al Wheelon at 424-8289. There is no charge for delivery.

FIRE HAZARD

More than 70 per cent of all fires occur in dwellings, according to estimates of the National Fire Protection Association. Some 6,800 deaths are caused yearly in these fires.

Christmas Spirit

The Christmas season was officially opened Thursday night with the annual Jaycee parade. While crowds waited for the first units to appear, they were able to admire the Christmas decorations erected by Texas Power & Light personnel earlier in the day. (Staff photo by Richard LaGow).

Follow Rules for Vet Visits

Large dogs, nervous cats, concerned pet owners and a sprinkling of children...these are only some of the clients that gather in a veterinarian's waiting room.

Proper advance preparation can make your stay in the waiting room a brief one and your visit with the veterinarian more productive. Although your veterinarian may offer specific suggestions, here are a few general hints for pet owners regarding office visits.

Call for an appointment. Your veterinarian will appreciate knowing the purpose of your visit in advance. Certain medical procedures require more time than others, and your call will allow office staff to plan their workday accordingly.

You should also mention the number of pets you plan to bring with you. The veterinarian may need to order additional vaccine or other medication to accommodate an extra litter of kittens or puppies.

Arrive on time. The less time you spend in the waiting room, the less restless your pet is likely to become. Those arriving late for appointments or demanding non-emergency care without an appointment only add to the crowding.

Be prepared to control your pet while in the waiting room. Dogs should be leashed or harnessed; cats and small animals kept in carriers or boxes.

Not all pets in a veterinary office are there because they are ill; those waiting for routine vaccinations may be ready to play. A lethargic cat can easily squirm out of your arms when startled by an inquisitive poodle.

Provide your pet with water, but no food, the day of the scheduled appointment. The pet is less inclined to develop an upset stomach if food intake is limited.

Before leaving for the office, allow your pet a toilet stop. Place your cat near its litter box or walk your dog.

Once you meet with your veterinarian, the visit will be more effective if you remember these points:

The veterinarian cannot immediately remedy the results of weeks of neglect on your part. If your pet has mange and hair loss over large areas of the body, treatment will require more than a bath and one application of salve. You must carry out the recommended treatment at home.

Except in unusual cases, your veterinarian is not a pet groomer. Veterinarians are professional medical people, and their time and training is directed toward improving pet health. Your veterinarian will be glad to demonstrate the basic rules of good grooming and pet hygiene so you can perform these tasks at home.

The more you understand about your pet and its care, the healthier your pet will be. Don't be afraid to ask your veterinarian for suggestions.

Biggerstaff to Guest On Radio Talk Show

Preservation and fund-raising activities of the Plano Heritage Association will be the topic of "Around Town with Robbe" Monday at 11:45 a.m. on KXVI-Radio.

Association president Joan Biggerstaff will be Robbe Glenn's guest on the radio talk show. The weekly show features discussions with personalities of the Plano-McKinney-North Metro area and is taped at the Safecracker restaurant at 6 p.m. Thursday evenings for broadcast on Mondays.

Safecracker diners may observe production of the show each week and participate in a drawing for the table floral centerpiece.

Registration for the drawing begins at 5 p.m. and the winner is selected during the radio show.

Survey Results Told

Congressman Jim Collins today announced the results of his annual fall questionnaire.

In an overwhelming response to the Congressional questionnaire, the residents of the Third District indicated continuing support for conservative stands on national and state issues.

Collins noted that while the district has always been conservative, the latest questionnaire results showed no significant drop in support for retaining the Panama Canal and an increase in the number of people who designated "inflation" and "too much government" as the major issues facing the United States today.

"Texas and the Metroplex are thriving because of our conservative approach to government," Collins said. "Over the last ten years, Texas has gained 226,000 manufacturing jobs as compared to the liberal Northeast which lost 700,000 jobs.

"This prosperity can only be attributed to the sort of conservative, pro-business thinking that was reflected in these questionnaire results."

Third District respondents displayed considerable dissatisfaction with the performance of President Carter so far.

President Carter's plan to give illegal aliens permanent resident status was rejected by a margin of 9 to 1.

"People all around the nation are beginning to realize that our prosperity did not happen just by accident," Collins concluded. "Our feeling that 'less government' is better government' should be looked to as an excellent model for the rest of the nation."

Rabinove to Discuss Quotas, Law at UTD

One of the nation's leading civil liberties activists, Samuel Rabinove of the American Jewish Committee, will speak Wednesday, Dec. 7, at The University of Texas at Dallas.

Rabinove, director of the legal division on the American Jewish Committee's Domestic Affairs Department, will speak on "Quotas and the Law" at 7 p.m. in room 2.214, Erik Jonsson Center, on the UT-Dallas campus, located at Campbell and Floyd Roads in Richardson.

His speech is being sponsored by College I - Natural Sciences and Mathematics.

In his position with the American Jewish Committee, Rabinove primarily is concerned with the legal and quasi-legal aspects of the committee's civil rights and civil liberties activities.

He works with the group's national and field staff and local Jewish community relations councils.

Rabinove also is responsible for the filing of briefs and other actions in cases having significant implications for minority groups in general and for Jews in particular, such as those involving questions of religious liberty, housing, education and employment discrimination and freedom of expression.

A New York City native, he received his B.S. degree in social science from the College of the City of New York and his LL.B. from Columbia Law School. He currently is a member of the New York State Advisory Committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

Are you a Christian?

Is a Christian one who merely believes in Christ, any member of a church, one who follows the golden rule or ten commandments, as many contend?

These vague qualifications for being a Christian cause many sincere people to be satisfied with standards far below those set forth by Christ Himself for being a Christian.

"He that saith, I know home, and keepeth no his commandments, is a liar and the truth is not in him." (1st John 2:4)

Believing in Christ, being morally good and attending church services are quite necessary, but it takes more than this to be a Christian by Christ's standards.

The booklet, "You Can Be Just a Christian," written by a Bible scholar, has helped thousands understand more clearly what is required to be truly a Christian. This valuable booklet is available at no charge.

Doctors Investigate Sleeping

Contrary to the ancient philosophers' idea that sleep is a state akin to death, researchers at Southwestern Medical School say certain sleep stages are chock full of life and activity.

Sleep is still an unfolding mystery, however, with plenty of questions yet to be answered, according to the team of three psychiatry faculty members who have set up new sleep research laboratories at Southwestern at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas.

Professor Howard Roffwarg, the director of the new unit, and Assistant Professors John Herman and Jorge Farber will continue the work on sleep that they began at Montefiore Hospital in New York City.

Various Stages Full of Activity

They are interested in the different sleep stages and their cycling, but particularly in the active state when internal stimulation takes place.

These rhythmically occurring periods emerge when specific lower portions of the brain turn on and issue bursts of phasic electrical activity that, among other effects, cause the eyes to dart rapidly behind closed lids and the middle ear muscles to contract, as the latter do in response to loud sound in the awake state.

This active state gets its name from the prominent eye activity that occurs—Rapid Eye Movement Sleep (REMS).

REMS occurs most often in the fetus, and a baby experiences more REMS than an adult. The researchers have theorized that the brain activity going on during the phasic bursts of REM and middle ear muscle activity (MEMA) enhance the processes of maturation in the brain. Consequently, REM sleep may have its prime functional effects during infancy.

The new sleep labs will be more involved in basic than in clinical questions, explained the investigators, whose grants were recently renewed by the National Institute of Mental Health.

The funded studies focus on the pattern and effects of REMS activation, and on the role of eye movements in perception and dreaming.

"We are interested in neurophysiological aspects of sleep; that is, can you relate the measurable physical events of brain activity to issues like, 'Where do dreams come from? What is the function of the sleep stage in which dreams are produced? What chemistries fuel the mechanisms of the REM and non-REM stage alternations that characterize normal sleep?'" said Dr. Roffwarg. "We do not know for sure, but we believe today that biogenic amines (organic nitrogen compounds), produced by the nerve cells, act as the neurotransmitters regulating the activities within single sleep stages as well as their cycling," he added.

"The right combinations of amines at the right time in a specific area probably initiates sleep, and we are getting more certain about where that area is," said Dr. Farber.

The scientists point to sleep as an active process that requires an active "turn-on" system. Dr. Farber's work has shown the connection of the REMS system to the drive-reward system in animals.

He has been exploring the generators of the explosive phasic activity that is initiated in the lower brain and radiates throughout the entire brain in REMS.

He feels that the REMS generator activity is directed to the functions most used by a given species in its waking state.

For example, a rat experiences frequent nose twitches during REMS, and it relies greatly on the sense of smell in the awake state.

Dr. Herman is interested specifically in the process of dreaming in relation to our daily perceptual experiences and concurrent brain activity.

"Dreaming is a mind-body event, and we're trying to sketch in this relationship," he said. He pointed out that the human is the only animal able to recount dreams. Still, the specific purpose of dreaming remains elusive.

The group will be doing a number of animal experiments centered around REMS and the more recently discovered MEMA during REMS.

"We think REMS is extremely fundamental. It is inherent in the normal sleep of all mammals and is an important biological rhythm," said Dr. Roffwarg.

Dr. Roffwarg came to Southwestern this year from Albert Einstein College of

Christmas Cards Can Help Needy Children

More than an expression of best wishes at the holiday season, UNICEF greeting cards also open the door to a happier, healthier New Year for millions of disadvantaged children in the poorest countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America.

UNICEF cards don't just talk peace, joy and goodwill, they do something about it by providing vital resources for the work of the United Nations Children's Fund. That is why distinguished artists, talented youngsters and important museums from six continents have contributed designs for this year's collection of contemporary and traditional UNICEF cards.

Snow scenes from Europe, Japan and North America, international Christmas whimsy and nostalgia, a delicate peace dove from Brazil, folk art from Indonesia and Africa, floral designs and a "Mother and Child" by Picasso are among the highlights.

Others include holiday postcards, Mini Notes, stationery portfolios, fold-a-notes and engagement and desk calendars.

Many feature holiday messages printed in the five official languages of the United Nations - English, French, Spanish, Russian and Chinese; others are left blank for handwritten greetings, and the Chanukah Menorah is printed in English and Hebrew.

Proceeds from the sale of UNICEF cards will mean more and better food, improved health care and increased educational opportunities for children in the 100 developing countries where the UN Children's Fund is at work every day of the year.

The purchase of just one box of UNICEF cards will provide enough high-potency Vitamin A capsules to protect 25 infants against nutritionally-caused blindness for a year, or seven packets of lettuce seed for a school garden, or 50 pencils for very young scholars.

Schafer Completes Training

Marine Private Tad A. Schafer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Schafer of Plano, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

Schafer participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

A 1977 graduate of Plano Senior High School, he joined the Marine Corps in December 1976.

Play by Schisgal Opens in January

Theatre SMU announced a premiere production of "The Popkins", a new play by Murray Schisgal, will be presented in January.

The play will be fully staged in the Margo Jones Theatre under the direction of Mesrop Kesdekian, with Schisgal coming to Dallas for the last few weeks of rehearsals to work with Kesdekian on the play.

Schisgal, who is best known for his play "Luv" which was produced in London in 1963 and on Broadway in 1964, first gained international recognition with "The Typists and the Tiger" in the early '60's and has since been the recipient of the Vernon Rice Award, the Outer Circle Award and the Saturday Review Critics Poll Award.

His most recent Broadway success was "All Over Town", produced in 1974 and listed in "The Best Plays of 1974-1975. Presently Schisgal is in London working on the film "Agatha" with Dustin Hoffman and Vanessa Redgrave.

"The Popkins" is Schisgal's comic view of the male and female seeking liberation through many remedies so often suggested by marriage experts, mistresses or deodorant ads.

The inability of the Popkins to "communicate" leads them to dissolve their marriage. After two years they reunite, but not before pursuing many avenues for liberation including prison, adult classes in pottery, varied sexual relationships and, of course, the psychologist's couch.

The book publishing pubniness in New York City presents the framework for this zany comedy.

Theatre SMU presents "The Popkins" on the subscription series in place of Corinne Jucker's "Among Friends". The play will run from January 31 through February 12, with tickets going on sale January 17.

To Make Beefalo

Bison, Cattle Crossed

By MERLE KELLERHALS EDMOND, S.C. (UPI) — When Leo Kerscher is not fixing foreign cars at his shop in Columbia, he can be found tending his small herd of beefalo.

Kerscher has built up a 55-acre ranch he calls the "Circle K Beefalo Range" where he raises and breeds beefalo. He sells the semen to cattlemen in South Carolina.

A beefalo is a new hybrid animal resulting from a cross between the American buffalo and domestic beef cattle.

The meat from beefalo, said Kerscher, has been found to be higher in protein and contain less cholesterol because of the inbreeding of the physically stronger and healthier buffalo.

"The meat from a beefalo tastes better to me than any other meat," he said. "The animals will eat anything making the meat cheaper for the farmer to raise."

Kerscher, 44, said he got into the beefalo business about three years ago because it was something nobody else was doing and he wanted some land of his own. He owns 20 head of beefalo and Herefords.

He came to the United States from West Germany in 1955.

"At my home near Munich," he said, "the biggest plot of land we had was a flower pot."

Beefalo has not been widely accepted as a replacement for regular beef. But then, said Kerscher, it was only recently perfected — in 1973 by D.C. Basolo, a Tracy, Calif., rancher. Many previous attempts to crossbreed the sturdy bison with domestic cattle had produced sterile offspring.

Kerscher said "it may take 20 years to raise the kind of herds it would take to meet demand for beef at the dinner table."

The beefalo are stronger and healthier than other cattle, he said. "They don't get hoof-and-mouth disease, hookworm or 'pink-eye.' They are usually taller and weigh more than a Herefords or other cows.

Beefalo have floppy ears, fur instead of hair and considerably less fat in the hind quarters than domestic cattle. Kerscher said the fur is often sold after the animal has been slaughtered.

Duffy Participates In TCU Program

Pete Duffy, a Plano resident, is one of eight Texas Christian University students commended recently for collecting more than $3,000 each in the TCU Student Foundation's third annual national phonothon.

The 16 night fund-raising drive netted $81,731, more than $10,000 beyond the campaign goal.

Duffy is a senior management major at TCU.

The meat costs as much as 40 percent less than beef per pound.

Richland to Perform Chance Composition

The first area performance of John Barnes Chance's "Symphony No. 2" will be given by the Richland College Concert Band December 5 at 8 p.m. and December 6 at 12:30 p.m. in the Richland Performance Hall.

The late composer, Chance, created the entire three movement work based on a four note motive which is stated in the opening measures.

Directed by Dale Kennedy, the band will also play Malcolm Arnold's "Four Cornish Dances," Sergei Rachmaninoff's "Italian Polka," Norman Dello Gioi's "Scenes from the Louvre," and Alexander Tcherepnin's "Three Bagatelles."

The numbers are varied, entertaining and enjoyable for audiences. "Scenes from the Louvre" is taken from the original score of the NBC television special of 1964 which won an Emmy Award as the most outstanding music written for television that season.

Based on ancient airs, the movements are "The Portals," "Children's Gallery," "Kings of France," "Nativity Paintings," and "Finale."

Both concerts are free and open to the public. For more information, call 746-4550.

Groups May Sponsor Dance Performances

Organizations throughout the state are invited to participate in the 1978-79 Dance Touring Program funded by the National Endowment for the Arts and administered by the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities, according to Maurice Coats, TCAH executive director.

The Dance Touring Program helps nonprofit, tax-exempt groups sponsor five days of dance company residency for public performances, workshops, master classes and lecture demonstrations.

In the past sponsors have included symphonies, theatre groups, local dance groups, museums, colleges, universities, local arts councils, service organizations, Junior League and Rotary, public and private schools and many more.

The limited funding is available strictly on a first come, first served basis and interested persons should immediately contact the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities if they are considering participation.

The National Endowment for the Arts funding provides 30 percent of a company's base fee.

DECA Club Elects New Term Officers

Officers have been elected to serve this year for the two Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) at Plano Senior High School, according to Jon Warren, distributive education instructor.

Paula Moore is president of the 0 period with Steve McKinley serving as vice president. Dawn Carter as secretary-treasurer and Phyllis Allman as reporter.

Officers in the period I are Josh Carter, president; Bruce Markham, vice president; Kathe Berg, secretary-treasurer; and Steve Carper, reporter.

Participation in DECA is part of the distributive education program.
